

Board's Order Faces Fight in Badger Courts

Federal Judge Won't Intervene in Milwaukee Strike

PLEA IS DENIED

Thinks Federal Labor Relations Act Does Not Apply

MADISON—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone's refusal to intervene in a strike at the Allen-Bradley company plant in Milwaukee cleared the way today for an action in state courts to enforce an order of the Wisconsin employment relations board against the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union, a CIO affiliate.

Judge Stone denied the union's petition for an injunction to prevent enforcement of the July 14 order in which the board directed it to cease mass picketing, limit its picket line to 15 persons, and demanding that the union stop threatening employees of the company.

The union contended the state board had no jurisdiction in the dispute, but Judge Stone declared he was "satisfied that the federal labor relations act does not apply" in the case.

"Here we can assume that both the employer and employees have adequate remedies under the state law," Judge Stone said. "The federal act should not interfere with the operation of the state board unless the law is clearly unconstitutional and the plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law. The plaintiff has failed to show that here."

Obstacle Removed
Assistant Attorney General Newell S. Boardman said Judge Stone's ruling removes the last obstacle in the way of filing a state court suit at Milwaukee to compel enforcement of the board's order. He said the petition would be filed either late today or tomorrow.

The union failed to respond within the 10 day period allowed for acknowledgment of the board order. Judge Stone announced his ruling from the bench late yesterday after he heard arguments on the union's petition by Max Geline, Milwaukee attorney for the union, and the motion for dismissal supported by Boardman and Deputy Attorney General J. Ward Rector, representing the state board, and Leo Mann, counsel for the company.

Geline contended the federal court should intervene because enforcement of the order would deprive the union and company employees of property rights which would be jeopardized under the national law. He said the federal court could assume jurisdiction because the Allen-Bradley company was engaged in interstate commerce.

Says U. S. Law Applies
Since there was conflict between the federal and state laws as applied to the dispute, he added, the federal law should have precedence because the company's business was outside the state line. He said: "The rights established pursuant to the national labor relations act are property rights subject to the protection of a court of equity. The union's right is to be recognized as the collective bargaining agency for the Allen-Bradley workers. This has been established under the national act. We charge that application of the Wisconsin act will result in the loss of such rights."

Attorney Mann asserted that order of the state board are not self-enforcing.

"In that respect the state law is the same as the national act," he said. "The state board must go before a court with a petition for enforcement of its order. That has not yet happened here. The order is not enforceable until a court has given its decree."

Geline asked permission to file an amended complaint, but Judge Stone declared the union had recourse to the United States Court of Appeals if it was dissatisfied with his decision.

General Sales Tax Proposal Again Offered

Senate Votes to Delay
Revenue Bill Debate
Until Tomorrow

G.O.P. HAS CAUCUS

Fail to Agree on Conflicting Views Expressed in Amendments

MADISON—The senate today postponed action on a budget balancing tax program and received simultaneously a proposal from Senator Kenneth S. White (R) River Falls, to revive the 3 per cent general sales tax.

Because of the absence of two Republicans, Taylor Brown of Oshkosh and Milton T. Murray of Milwaukee the senate voted 29 to 9 to delay the tax bill debate until 2 o'clock p. m. tomorrow.

Senator Philip Nelson (P) Maple, objected to the postponement but Republican Floor Leader Maurice Cockley, Beloit, insisted that the senate have full attendance.

The Republicans discussed the tax issue at their caucus last night but came to no agreement on how to dispose of conflicting views expressed in some of the 16 amendments pending.

Complicating the situation was the fact that no party has a clear senate majority and in the absence of any coalition agreement leaders proposed that the tax question be fought out on the floor.

Alternative Plan
Senator White said he drafted the sales tax as an alternative in the event the senate upsets the $15,000,000 miscellaneous tax bill passed by the assembly and acts unfavorably on proposed administrative amendments to add another $900,000 to bring revenues in line with appropriations.

With a few exemptions such as motor fuel, farm feeds and seed, the sales tax substitute would apply to all purchases and would raise $52,000,000 during the next two years.

It is similar to the first proposal suggested by Governor Heil's financial advisers but rejected by the Republicans in caucus.

It would yield close to $10,000,000 annually for the state general fund and $16,000,000 a year to be returned to local units for reducing general property taxes. Of the state's $7,000,000 would be used annually for charitable and pensions aids, $2,000,000 for relief allotments to counties and $300,000 for a bangs disease eradication program.

Also embodied is a property tax limitation feature similar to that in the administration-endorsed Northman bill which would freeze real estate taxes until 1941 at the 1936 level.

Telegrapher Admits
Fatal Shooting of Wife, 6-Year-Old Son

Fond du Lac—(P)—Sheriff Harold Hammer of Dodge county, said today Walter H. Klix, 41-year-old telegrapher, had confessed the fatal shooting of his wife and 6-year-old son at their home near Theresa yesterday.

Klix is a patient in St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, to which he was brought after shooting himself yesterday. His condition was improved today. Attending physicians said the bullet from his pistol passed close to the heart, but they gave him a fair chance of recovery.

Slit Hammer said Klix gave the following statement to him and Deputy Sheriff Clifford O'Brien of Waukesha county:

"I admit to all that I shot my wife and son. I believe at the time it was an act of mercy. I thought they were a little mentally unbalanced, but now I am awfully sorry. I wish I could pull through so I could live a life of repentance. I would be willing to do anything to lead others from sin."

Klix has been named in a warrant charging two counts of first degree murder.

After shooting his 34-year-old wife, Margaret, and his son, Herbert, Klix shot himself and set fire to his home, District Attorney Clarence Trager of Dodge county said.

Members of the Theresa fire department found Klix outside a window.

Outagamie county authorities will attempt to bring her here for trial after prosecution of the Benton Harbor case.

7 of 22 Federal Prisoners Escape; Overpower Guards

Take Arms and Steal Automobile in Virginia;
Beat Officers

Thornburg, Va.—(P)—Seven of 22 federal prisoners en route from Atlanta to Pennsylvania escaped from a department of justice bus near here today after overpowering four guards, taking their arms and commandeering an automobile.

The guards were beaten and stretched on the floor of the vehicle while the prisoners donned their gray caps and drove for about a half hour over side roads off the heavily traveled Richmond-Washington highway until they encountered a private automobile driven by Mrs. Ruby Lee Thurston, of Guinea, Va.

Stopping her car, they forced Mrs. Thurston into the bus and one of the group followed in the automobile for several more miles before she was released unharmed. The other six then deserted the bus and made off in the car.

Two black and two revolvers were reported taken from the guards, three of whom were brought here for medical attention. Chris A. Laurson, officer in charge, called Virginia state police and F.B.I. authorities, who broadcast the alarm.

The 15 prisoners who remained on the bus did not attempt to join in the escape and were taken to the Fredericksburg, Va., jail.

The guards treated here were believed to have suffered only superficial injuries, although they were severely beaten. They were Clinton E. Campbell, W. E. Godschalk and H. Glenn Cunningham.

Murder Trial Is On at Waukesha

Jurors Visit Apartment
Where Elderly Woman
Was Found Slain

Waukesha—(P)—The jury of eight men and four women trying Edward Abel, 43, of Milwaukee Soldiers Home, on a first degree murder charge, today viewed the apartment where Mrs. Olive Le Roy, 76, was found bludgeoned to death with a hatchet June 2.

District Attorney Scott Lowry, in his opening statement to the jury, declared the state would prove that Abel previously threatened both Mrs. LeRoy and his estranged wife, Margaret, with whom Mrs. LeRoy had gone to live, over Mrs. Abel's alleged friendship with another man.

The district attorney asserted the state would prove that Abel went to the apartment June 2, that when Mrs. LeRoy said this friend was coming to see Mrs. Abel, the defendant went to a storeroom and obtained a hatchet and then slew the elderly woman.

The defense reserved its statement, and testimony proceeded with Police Chief Theodore R. Kolsater identifying the bloodstained hatchet found in the apartment.

After selection of the jurors yesterday, Circuit Judge Henry Lockyer permitted testimony, prior to opening statements, concerning Mrs. LeRoy's wounds.

Anti-Third Term Move Not Due This Session

Washington—(P)—Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) said today he had decided to withhold introduction of an anti-third term resolution until the opening days of the 1940 session of congress.

Holt explained he was influenced by the counsel of older party members who felt senate action now might involve a challenge to President Roosevelt to seek a third term when he had given no indication of following this course.

The resolution would say it is the sense of the senate that a president should not serve more than two terms.

CAUCUS MOVE MADE

Congress Leaders Hoping To Adjourn Week
From Saturday

Washington—(P)—Harassed congressional leaders struggled today to reunite their divided forces in both houses in an effort to enact the $2,490,000,000 lending program and adjourn a week from Saturday.

Administration lieutenants in the senate, where debate began late yesterday, were faced with a plugging array of prospective amendments. Some of the most controversial were offered from within Democratic ranks—notably a proposal to attach a rider restoring the WPA prevailing wage scale.

In the house, leaders appeared to be making progress in attempts to placate an impatient group of 51 Democrats who sought to force action on the lending bill through a call for a party caucus. Such a caucus could bind all house Democrats to act as a unit.

The move for a caucus followed an attempt by the rules committee to stifle the $800,000,000 housing bill. Representative McKeough (D-Ill.), who circulated the petition for the meeting, told reporters:

"Members signing the call for the caucus believe that no adjournment should take place until necessary legislation has been passed or the responsibility for the failure to pass is properly placed on the reactionary coalition consisting of a small bloc of Democrats and practically the entire Republican membership of the house."

The administration sought to hammer home today its widely-

Oklahoma Desperado Indicted in Chicago by Federal Grand Jury

Chicago—(P)—Oliver Lawrence Dressler, Alias Jack Russell, Oklahoma desperado, was indicted by a federal grand jury today for kidnapping and murdering William Scott Hamilton, of Arkansas City, Kan.

Conviction or even a plea of guilty to the indictment would carry a possible death sentence.

The indictment was returned before Judge James H. Wilkerson last night simultaneously with an announcement in McAlester, Okla., by Warden Jess Dunn that Russell had confessed killing Hamilton.

Seven counts were contained in the indictment. Each charged a separate offense in connection with Russell's alleged seizure of Hamilton at Pittsburg, Kan., on July 12, and his transportation to Ringwood, Ill., McHenry county. The indictment accused Russell of shooting Hamilton to death at Ringwood on July 14.

The counts cover, kidnapping, forcible detention, transportation and crossing of state lines in a stolen automobile incident to abduction and alleged murder.

A certified copy of the indictment immediately was sent by the United States district attorney's office to the federal prosecutor at Muskogee, Okla. Immediate proceedings were expected to be instituted there for the removal of Russell to Chicago from the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlester.

Senate Advances Bill To Bar Progressives From Election Posts

Madison—(P)—A switch of two Republican votes today enabled the senate to advance towards final passage the Shimek bill which would deprive the Progressive party of any election booth appointments next year.

Sensors Mueller of Wausau and Fisher of Waupaca, after joining three other Republicans in refusing to engraft the bill 17 to 12, agreed to reconsideration. After pairs were filed for Senators Sauld (D), Pembine, and Murray (R), Milwaukee, who were absent, the measure was tentatively approved 18 to 14.

The bill would distribute about 21,000 polling booth jobs on the basis of party standing in the last presidential vote and since the Progressives have never had a candidate for president only the Republicans and Democrats could be eligible to receive and advance towards final passage the Shimek bill which would deprive the Progressive party of any election booth appointments next year.

Republicans who voted with the majority were Fred Fisher of Wausau, Gettelman, Mike Mack of Shiocton, Otto Mueller of Wausau and Conrad Shearer of Kenosha. Republican Floor Leader Maurice Cockley, Beloit, voted for the bill, but switched to the majority side so as to be in a position to move reconsideration.

Green Bay Man Shoots Self
After Murdering Estranged
Wife and His Mother-in-Law

Green Bay—Joseph Devroy, 57, Brown county tavern operator for 30 years, lay at the point of death in St. Vincent's hospital here today from two self-inflicted bullet wounds after confessing to police and to Richard J. Farrell, assistant district attorney, that he had shot and killed his wife, Lena, 45, and her mother, Mrs. Emily Kaiser, 64, in a garage at the rear of the latter's home yesterday afternoon.

The double murder came 3 hours after Devroy had been served with a summons in a divorce action together with a court commissioner's order directing him to vacate "Lena Devroy's tavern" just north of city limits on Highway 41.

"So after all my work to build up this place she plans to turn it over to somebody else," Undersheriff Andrew Lom said Devroy exclaimed when Lom served the papers on him.

Heard Woman Scream
Whether Devroy lay in wait for the women at the garage or whether he just chanced to meet them there may never be known. They apparently had come after the car. Three girls playing in an adjoining yard said they heard a woman scream "Don't please don't." The screams were followed by several shots. Then, they said a man ran out of the garage and drove away in a car parked a short distance away.

A post mortem examination showed that both women had been shot through the heart, dying instantly. The bullets apparently had been fired at a range of 5 to 10 feet.

Police, called by neighbors, immediately sent out a general alarm for Devroy. Patrolmen John Schoenrock and Lawrence Schroeder went to the home of his sister, Mrs. John Poles, northwest of Duck Creek, playing a hunch that he might have gone there to take refuge.

Union Worker Is Slain in Clash

Wholesale Arrests Threatened as Result of Violence in Indiana

Boonville, Ind.—(P) Sheriff Gus Barclay of Warrick county threatened wholesale arrests today following a labor skirmish which brought death to a union worker yesterday.

John Pikelton, 35, of Elberfeld was shot fatally and five others were hurt as pickets of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Labor union (A. F. of L.) clashed with non-union workers on a bridge project near the village of Millersburg northwest of here.

John Felix, 38, of Hopkinsville, Ky., one of the non-union men, was jailed here and Sheriff Barclay said a formal murder charge would be filed against him.

John Soucie, 44, of Evansville, organizer for the union and business agent of Local 561 there, was charged with rioting. He was freed on $500 bond.

The sheriff said he expected no further trouble. Work on the bridge was stopped after the riot. Pikelton, shot in the stomach shortly before noon, died later in an Evansville hospital. The sheriff said he had been working on the road which will cross the bridge.

George Hamond, 51, of Millersburg, union road worker shot in the back, also was taken to the hospital. The other injured did not need hospital treatment.

Not Engaged in
'Trade' Under Definition of Act
APPEAL IS SEEN

Justice Agrees Medicine
Defined as 'Learned Profession'

Washington—(P)—A federal district court rejected today the government's contention that the American Medical association had violated the Sherman anti-trust act.

Justice James M. Proctor, upholding a defense demurrer to indictments, ruled that the A. M. A. and its fellow defendants were not engaged in a "trade" as defined by the anti-monopoly statute.

Counsel for the doctors had contended their activities could not be governed by the anti-trust law, that they were engaged in a "learned profession" rather than a trade.

On Dec. 20, 1938, a District of Columbia grand jury, acting on evidence presented by the justice department, indicted the A. M. A., the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, the Washington Academy of Surgery, the Harris County, Texas, Medical society, and 21 individual physicians for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

These organizations and individuals, the indictment read, were "engaged in a continuing combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade in hampering the activities of Group Health association, Inc., of the District of Columbia, an organization established in 1937 to hire physicians and nurses and provide hospital care on a cooperative basis to government employees."

Defense attorneys had contended that all of their clients' activities were directed solely at the maintenance of the ethics and standards of the profession.

Justice Proctor said:

"Is medical practice a trade with in the meaning of section three of the Sherman act? In my opinion, it is not."

Justice department officials, while not contesting the issue, indicated an appeal would be asked. The final decision will be up to Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, now on vacation.

Justice Proctor agreed with demurrers filed by defense counsel, which argued that medicine was a "learned profession" rather than a "trade." He said he thought the legal concept of the word "trade" had long been settled by the supreme court in a decision "expressly excepting the learned professions."

Justice's Comment
Justice Proctor remarked at one point that the indictment as drawn "smacks" of a highly colored, argumentative discourse, "and at another point he said it was "afflicted with vague and uncertain statements."

"In some instances, he added, material facts were entirely lacking. The opinion said:

"The government has cited many English and American cases dealing with restrictive covenants ancillary to agreements by doctors concerning the sale or conduct of their practice. . . . It is argued that these cases have drawn medical practice within the orbit of trade."

"But those cases are beside the point. They do not involve any question as to whether medicine is a trade. They accept the universal understanding of the learned professions."

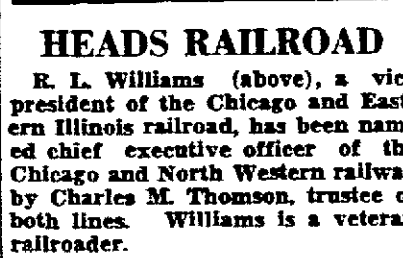

Doctrines Development
"At most such cases serve only to illustrate the development of a legal doctrine, having its origin in contracts concerning tradesmen, which became known as the doctrine 'against restraint of trade,' and which in course of time was extended and applied to agreements by doctors respecting their professional practice."

"The demurrers raise basic objections to the indictment. Of first importance is the contention that none of the alleged restraints has reference to trade, that section three comprehends only those occupations in commercial life carried on in the markets of trade activity; therefore, that the medical profession and the businesses of the (Group Health) association and hospitals do not constitute 'trade' within the purview of the statute."

"Against this contention the government's position is that all who are occupied in any activity where they supply money's worth for full money payment are engaged in trade; that section three does cover all such activities; therefore, that the practice of medicine and the businesses of the association and hospitals do fall within the scope of the statute."

Bill to Revise Civil Service Is Given House O. K.

Would Ban Political Activity Under Some Circumstances

Madison—(P)—The assembly approved unanimously today a program sponsored by Speaker Vernon Thomson (R), Richland Center, for revision of state civil service regulations affecting some 9,000 workers.

Major point of dispute was a provision, adopted 62 to 30, forbidding civil service employees under certain circumstances to engage in political activity.

The bill was passed and messaged to the senate under suspension of the rules. Thomson led the fight for the program as a substitute for the bill of William Goldthorpe (R), Cuba City, which would have given the governor greater control over the personnel bureau.

In general Thomson's bill differed from Goldthorpe's in modifying the governor's power to select a director, and in limiting the director's authority to exempt certain jobs from civil service.

Would Name Board
Under the Thomson bill the governor would name a board of three men, all of whom must have resided in Wisconsin for five years and must not have been candidates for or held public office, except non-partisan jobs. Senate confirmation would be required.

The director would be chosen either by competitive examination or by promotion of a present employee who has had three years or more of service in the department.

An amendment by Ernest A. Heden (R), Ogemaw, encountered opposition, mainly from two Progressives, Andrew Biemiller of Milwaukee, and Paul Alfonsi of Pence. It provided no civil service employee should be an active member of a political organization, or make any contribution to such organization, on penalty of dismissal.

Velma West Arrested By Dallas Detectives

Dallas—(P)—Velma West's "one little adventure" after 11 years' imprisonment for the hammer murder of her husband ended abruptly here with her arrest on a city street.

The emaciated blonde's adventure had extended 36 days—out of state—from the Ohio Women's reformatory from which she led three other prisoners in a bold escape.

Young and others discussed plans for his removal to Bangor, where his father is a patient in a hospital, suffering from an eye injury suffered in the mountain search for his son.

An amazing tale of tenacious courage spilled from the lips of the tired boy when he fell exhausted in the arms of McMoarn yesterday.

While an army of searchers scoured the steep, craggy-scarred sides of lofty Mt. Katahdin, Donn, a Boy Scout, wandered 35 miles from the peak on which he disappeared July 17, followed a brook and then a telephone line until finally he came last night to the first human habitation, the home of McMoarn.

"I ate what berries I could find," Donn told McMoarn as Mrs. McMoarn gave the haggard, emaciated lad soup and coffee before sending him to bed. "I drank from stagnant pools until I found fresh water."

While the lad consumed a breakfast of toast and eggs, McMoarn, Dr.

State Seeking to Reopen Telephone Firm Rate Case

Counsel Acts to Prevent Return of Impounded $3,000,000

Madison—The supreme court was petitioned yesterday by Harold M. Wilkie, special counsel for the state public service commission, either to rehear its decision nullifying rate reduction orders in the Wisconsin Telephone company case or to send the case back to the commission for further study.

Wilkie's alternative petition attempted to forestall return to the company of nearly $3,000,000 impounded in circuit court and to prevent complete collapse of the commission's efforts to reduce telephone rates.

The supreme court ruled against a commission order nearly this month when it sustained Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann in setting aside an order for a temporary rate cut of approximately $1,000,000 for the year 1934-35 and a final order of 1936 for a permanent annual reduction of $883,000.

Judge Hoppmann's ruling that deposits should be returned to the utility which it made as potential refunds to customers in the event the state was successful in the litigation, also was upheld by the high court.

Would Reopen Case
Wilkie asked that the deposits be kept impounded. In effect the commission would reopen the case, proposing to leave impounded deposits intact to provide protection for customers in the event new rate cut orders were rescinded.

Wilkie's request the case be remanded back to the commission was made, he said, to allow possible further study of telephone company rates during the period covered by the invalidated orders, which would be five years dating back to 1934.

Both the supreme court and Judge Hoppmann held the commission acted hastily and upon erroneous accounting. The value of the utility's property for rate purposes had been fixed much too low, they said.

Prohibition Leader Wants Old Party Name Put Back on Ballot

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—William C. Dean of Madison, leader of what remains of the old Prohibition party, yesterday asked the state legislature to make it easier for Prohibitionists to regain the place on the ballot which they surrendered in 1934 when they failed to attract the legally required number of votes.

Dean asked the lawmakers to approve a bill which would enable the political party which has not been on the ballot for a period of less than ten years to be reestablished by filing a petition signed by not less than 1,000 voters from at least ten counties.

Pointing out that Prohibitionists had a column on the Wisconsin state ballot for more than 40 years, Dean complained that reestablishment was virtually impossible under the present statutory requirements.

Under present law, the party must file petitions signed by one sixth of the voters in each of at least ten counties in order to be listed by name on the ballot.

Senator Kenneth White of River Falls, (R), appearing for his board of administrative review bill already approved by the senate, declared that while only five departments will be within its jurisdiction immediately, "it is hoped to bring more of them in later."

The bill, endorsed by the administration as a part of its reorganization program, would set up a new state agency consisting of three lawyers appointed by the governor which would hear appeals from the public service commission, the new securities division, the department of agriculture and markets, the insurance commission, and the proposed new motor vehicle division.

Appeals from such state departments, and others, now go to the Dane county circuit court.

White explained that the new appellate board would not be a court, and recalled that a report of the Wisconsin Bar Association recently expressed the opinion that appeals from decisions of the board could not be carried directly to the state supreme court, but would have to be routed through the circuit courts before the supreme court would assume jurisdiction.

Per Capita Debt of Country Is $329, Republican Charges

Washington—(AP)—Rep. Halleck (R-Ind.) said in a statement today that if all the farmers in Indiana sold all their lands and buildings, the receipts would not pay the state's share of the national debt, which approximates $40,000,000,000.

The statement, issued through the Republican national committee, said the per capita debt is $329. Indiana's share is $1,066,688,118, Halleck said, adding that the census bureau in 1935 reported the value of farm land and buildings in the state was $1,040,238,000.

Cancel 'Skim Milk' Game to Prep for Fond du Lac Sunday

That much-heralded softball game between the city officials and the "Skim Milk" team also made up of officers has been called off permanently so the two teams may join forces for the game with Fond du Lac city officers under lights at 6:15 Sunday night at Spencer field.

The controversy between the "Creams" and the "Skims" has assumed a position of unimportance in the face of a battle with the Fond du Lac team, which defeated Appleton several weeks ago, 8 and 6.

All the softball talk around city hall this week points towards a victory over the visitors and most of the team think it will be a cinch.

Alderman McGillan, captain of the city fathers, said his team has lost a few games but the boys still feel tough enough to beat Fondy.

"We've been tangling with youngsters and seniors out of our class, like the Post-Crescents, that's why we've been losing."

Now this Fond du Lac team is a more even match, the officials feel, since many of the boys are not as young as they used to be and can't circle the bases or get under a fly ball with the agility of youth.

Clarence Baetz, treatment plant superintendent, said he will again be behind the plate and defies any Fond du Lac player to cross it. "You notice how I stopped those Post-Crescents, didn't you?" he asked.

Wiley Delivers 'Farewell Talk' Before Sailing

Badger Freshman Senator Tells Chamber What He Thinks About It

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Senator Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls Republican, who sailed Tuesday for Europe with his wife and daughter to attend the Interparliamentary Union conference at Oslo, delivered a final speech of the session in the Senate with a minimum of heckling from his fellow members.

After thanking members of the Senate and the Capitol staff for their "friendly and courteous treatment" of him, the Senator enumerated the Senate's sins of omission and commission in the session now closing.

Wiley wished: all neutrality laws repealed; a constitutional amendment passed allowing a national referendum on any war not the result of invasion of the Western Hemisphere; a Senate committee appointed to study the national economy, with a view to war-time economy.

He wanted also: passage of his bill providing for a moratorium on government-owned mortgages; passage of an amendment to the constitution to give Congress the right to levy taxes for old age pensions (a Townsend Plan proposal); passage of his bill calling for an investigation of trade barriers between states.

What He Wants
Congress, he said, should have: "met the capital-labor issue head-on, I mean the issue presented by the Wagner Act"; should have reconsidered the problem of reciprocal trade agreements and their effect, when "both the zinc and the fox for industries are being cruked in my state"; should have taken and should still take some action on his, and others', constitutional amendment to limit the office of President to one six-year term.

He closed his address with an appeal that "through the succeeding months we as leaders of thought keep our minds on even keel, not stampeded, keep clear of the propaganda that comes from many quarters, and keep ourselves—our industry, our science, our art, our literature, our religion, our politics, our life—free from the entangling alliance of fear, prejudice, and hysteria."

One of Sen. Wiley's final acts before leaving was the introduction of a measure giving a year's grace to farm debtors. His bill, which cannot be considered at this session, provides that no payment of the principle on loans from Federal land banks or other bank commission loans need be made before July 1, 1940.

Chilton Lawmaker Raps Republicans

Assemblyman Peik Asails Administration in Radio Address

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Assemblyman Carl Peik of Calumet county, Chilton Progressive, today attacked the Republicans in power at the capitol for prolonging the legislative session for "28 consecutive weeks, at a cost of $1,000 a day to the taxpayers of this state."

He also attacked the Republican administration for its "action those many, many weeks" in "rooting up and destroying every vestige of liberal and progressive legislation passed during the past 40 years."

He said the Republicans wiped out virtually every agency established in recent years to help the farmers of Wisconsin with their grave problems, and said that "laborers of this state were given vicious treatment by the ruling Republican crowd."

Peik charged that labor and industrial strife has increased under the Heil labor board, which replaces the old board working "under a splendid labor relations act."

Peik's attacks were made in a radio speech broadcast over state-owned stations. He read from his manuscript these charges:

"That the administration's taxation program is 'dizzy,' and that it will 'take $25,000,000 more in taxes away from the people of this state than any other administration in the history of this state has asked for.'"

That the Republican argument that new taxes are necessitated by a barren treasury is a libel on the Progressive administration of last year. He said that there was a cash balance, surplus of the LaFollette administration, of more than $9,000,000 in the state treasury at the beginning of the new fiscal year recently.

Peik said that he had "represented you folks in Calumet county for the last seven months to the best of my ability."

Britain's Concession to Japan May Be Forerunner Of Big Political Turnover

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(AP)—Britain's reluctant concession to the Japanese in China has in it the potential makings of one of the biggest political turnovers which the Orient has experienced in generations.

Bitter Chinese already are crying "another Munich." Many of them say England has abandoned them to the sacrificial altar.

Japan quietly is claiming a far-reaching diplomatic victory. Nazi Germany has chalked up a major triumph for its Nipponese ally.

Even in England many misgivings have been expressed, despite Premier Chamberlain's denial that Britain's policy towards China has been changed.

However, it would be wiser to count 10 before jumping to the extreme conclusion that Britain is abandoning China. The heated Anglo-Japanese conference leading up to this concession have revealed much more than they have concealed.

Statement Is Vague
We know that the Japanese have made a gain of sufficient magnitude to kick up a lot of dust. But we don't know yet whether that dust marks a general withdrawal or is just the result of a quick shift by Britain for tactical reasons.

The joint Anglo-Japanese statement on the position purposefully was vague. You can read into it almost anything you want.

In the statement England recognizes that "the Japanese forces in China have special requirements for the purpose of safeguarding their own security and maintaining public order in the regions under their control."

The British have "two intentions of countenancing any acts or measures prejudicial to the above-mentioned objects by the Japanese forces."

Many Japanese quarters interpret this as recognition of belligerent rights for Japan in China, that is, the throwing of a green light for Nippon to go ahead and do pretty much as it likes. And in all conscience the statement would seem to give grounds for assuming a considerable retreat.

Premier Chamberlain, however, emphatically denied that belligerent rights were involved. He affirmed the maintenance of his policy towards China, which would mean from the Japanese viewpoint that England would continue to give Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek both moral and material support in the war against Japan.

Just how this fits in with Britain's promise not to do anything to jeopardize the security of Japanese troops in China isn't readily apparent.

Still, while there are things we don't know about the position, there is plenty we do know, and a thumbnail view of that throws a lot of light on the subject. Here is how it lies:

First off, Britain long has been dominant politically and economically in China when Japan cracked down on Manchuria in 1931. That was the beginning of an increasingly fierce conflict between Japanese and British interests.

The Japanese have made no effort to conceal their intention to break the British hold, and drive them out of China, lock, stock and barrel.

Ever since the Japanese invasion

Herman F. Bengs Is Elected First Mayor of Marion

Special Election Marks Growth of Village Into City

Marion—Herman F. Bengs Tuesday was elected the first mayor of Marion in a special election marking the reorganization of the village government into a city administration. He will serve two years.

Bengs polled 233 votes against 133 for his only opponent, J. E. Arndt. Bengs led in the city's three new wards scoring 86 to 35 in the First, 58 to 44 in the Second and 89 to 52 in the Third ward.

The incorporation into a city was voted by the Marion village board last spring primarily to insure increased state aid for the maintenance of streets, a boost of $400 per mile as a city over the village status.

Village officers also wanted increased representation on the county board and now will have three votes instead of one on the board. Cecil A. Welch polled 164 votes to win a 4-way race for the city clerk's job. He led in all three wards. Electors gave Anne R. Fox 91 votes, Richard L. Devaud 71, and A. J. Kratzke 32.

Officers Unopposed
Herman F. Spiegel, former village treasurer, tallied 320 votes and became the city's first treasurer. He was unopposed. Alfred J. Tapp, former village assessor, also was unopposed and scored 313 votes in the election.

Incumbent justices of the peace under the village system, O. R. Schroeder and Karl F. Miller, were unopposed. Schroeder polled 200 votes to win a 2-year term while Miller received 194 votes and was elected for one year.

Schroeder led the balloting in the First and Third wards and Miller took the Second ward.

A former village board member, Robert N. Nohr received 46 votes, and was defeated by James B. Hopkins, who polled 84 votes, in the race for the First ward aldermanic job. Hopkins was named for two years.

Harvey E. Welch received the backing of 73 electors and was named to the 2-year aldermanic job in the Second ward while J. W. Lacy, who polled 89 votes, was elected for one year. Both are former board members.

7-Vote Margin
A difference of seven votes gave August F. Ziehm the 2-year aldermanic post in the Third ward while W. A. Zietlow polled 101 votes to win the one-year term. Ziehm scored 108 votes. Both men served on the village board.

Harvey G. Meyer, incumbent village supervisor, won the right to continue in the First ward on the county board when he polled 80 votes against 38 for his opponent Oscar H. Schmitter. He will serve a 2-year term.

In a 3-way race for supervisor in the Second ward, Wilbert Zaugg scored 58 votes to more than double his opponents' individual tallies. Frank J. Meyer polled 20 votes and Fred W. Pocket received 19.

William F. Fuchs received 71 ballots to win the 2-year county board job representing the Third ward. He defeated Fred C. Hoffman, who polled 68 votes. Fuchs and Zaugg are newcomers in Marion politics.

Marion was incorporated as a village in 1890. The new city officers will qualify Thursday night when the first council meeting will be held in the former village hall.

Mrs. George J. Hoffer, 1425 W. Wisconsin avenue, returned Sunday from Rochester, Minn., after spending a week at the Mayo clinic. She will return to Rochester in two weeks and enter St. Mary hospital.

While Mercury Soars Aldermen Work on Snow Removal Problem

Although the mercury hovers around the 90 mark and everyone is complaining about the heat, the city council's street and bridge committee is worrying about next winter's snow and how to cut the cost of removal to the taxpayers.

Mayor Goodland in his address to the council last April suggested that the committee work out a schedule of charges against abutting property on streets where snow is removed and trucked away.

The committee is investigating the legality of such a special assessment and is attempting to work out a method of charging for the cost of the work.

Mayor Goodland said he believes a part of the cost should be borne by the abutting business places because they are directly benefited. However, the general tax roll should carry part of the burden because all of the people are benefited when downtown streets are cleared of snow, he said.

The entire cost is paid by the city at present and during 1938 reached $13,000. The previous year, $8,073 was spent in snow removal and in 1936, the cost was $8,159.

Aldermen Submit Protest Against New WPA Setup

Committee Head Says Change Will Boost Outlay for Relief

Kaukauna—A petition from the city council protesting against the present new WPA setup recently enacted by Congress will be sent to President Franklin D. Roosevelt; Colonel Harrington, national director of WPA; Senators Alexander Wiley and Robert M. LaFollette and Congressman Joshua Johns, according to announcement made today by Alderman Jules Mertes, chairman of the poor relief committee.

The petition was drawn up by Harry McAndrews, city attorney, and presented for approval Monday evening at a meeting of the poor committee in the council chambers.

Mertes told members of the council at the last meeting that the city would be forced to greatly curtail expenditures in order to meet the increased relief burden that will be caused by the new WPA setup.

He explained that under the new WPA enactment, FWA workers must put in 130 hours a month; formerly they worked only 88 hours. The law requires furloughs for those on the rolls continuously for 18 months and this will cause about 50 men to be laid off for 30 days in Kaukauna.

Currie Appointment Almost Lost in McNutt Excitement

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—One of the most important and revealing appointments by President Roosevelt—that of his confidential economic assistant—slipped by with barely routine attention the other day because it occurred while everyone was gazing in astonishment over the glamorous anointing of Paul McNutt as federal security administrator.

The relatively unnoticed appointment was that of Dr. Laughlin Currie as one of the six "anonymous" White House assistants provided for in the reorganization act. You won't hear much about Dr. Currie, for he has the true "passion for anonymity" which was prescribed for this intimate, confidential work. Although well-known among economists, and a former member of the Harvard economics faculty, he does not appear in "Who's Who." He even looks anonymous. Gray, although only 36 years old, slight of build, quiet-voiced, he melts unobtrusively in appearance and manner into any group. It is only when you get him off in a corner and talk with him that you discover after all that he is not a routine government clerk.

Yet he is one of the boldest and most aggressive economic thinkers in Washington, a protégé of Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board, and one of the heavy brains behind the recent economic hearings of the temporary national economic committee on savings and investment which developed the economics behind the current government "investment" or lending program.

In his new assignment, Dr. Currie will be Mr. Roosevelt's personal liaison man on New Deal economic matters. Strictly speaking the post has nothing to do with policy. Dr. Currie is not supposed to issue orders, make decisions or indulge in public statements, but to remain completely in the background, assisting the president in obtaining information concerning economic policies, and communicating the president's ideas, wishes and policies to the government officials concerned. Inevitably the post becomes of great importance because it is to a considerable degree the eyes and ears of the president in economic matters.

Joined New Deal in Treasury Department Job

Dr. Currie was born in Nova Scotia and is now an American citizen. His wife is a sister of Mrs. Philip LaFollette. He taught economics at Harvard and worked there with Dr. Alvin Hansen, who was the chief expert witness before TNEC recently on the necessity of government investment as an offset to current excessive savings out of the national economy. In the announcement of his appointment, Dr. Currie was credited to Maryland but his legal residence is Massachusetts. He came into the New Deal in 1934 as one of a small brains trust under Jacob Viner in the treasury department, specializing in monetary matters. There he met Marriner Eccles, then an assistant to the secretary of treasury. He went with Mr. Eccles to the federal reserve board as assistant director of research and statistics, and became one of the newer New Dealers.

President's Economist From New Deal Group

Testifying before TNEC, Dr. Currie said that the problem of maintaining full employment is the problem of securing sufficient outlets for the savings that will accompany full employment.

"It is not implied in this analysis as is sometimes believed," Dr. Currie said, "that there is something uneconomic or anti-social in the act of saving. From the point of view of an individual it is a natural and prudent act, and from the point of view of the economy as a whole it is necessary in order to provide a source of funds for the replacement and expansion of our plant and equipment."

New Deal economists make the point that if these savings are not pumped back into plant expansion by private industry, then government must make the expenditures to keep the economy moving. That is the reasoning behind the new lending bill which, incidentally, does not begin to go as far as many New Dealers wished. They consider it a restricted and conservative half-measure, and believe that a heavier dose is needed.

17 Requests for Various Licenses Before Committee

Seventeen applications for various city licenses are being considered and investigated by the city council's license committee. The applications will be before the council for approval Aug. 2.

Following are the applications: Theater, Rio and Appleton; second hand store, Mrs. Mary Merkel, 521 N. Superior street; garbage, Rubin La Plante and Allie Schimmers, Appleton; James Ratschack and George F. Tennie, Greenville; junk Louis Elacher, 330 W. Wisconsin avenue; Nathan Jacobson and L. Simon, 327 W. Wisconsin avenue; Louis Fink, 507 E. Pacific street; taxi, Town Taxi company and Checker Cab company, 109 N. Morrison; operators, Charles Mader, 1717 W. Winnebago street; Sam Nau, 1342 W. Division street; W. A. Weidemann, 104 W. Wisconsin avenue; and E. M. Patzel, 627 W. College avenue.

Without exaggerating the influence which Dr. Currie will have over policy, the fact remains that Mr. Roosevelt reached into the Eccles-New Deal group to get his confidential economic contact man.

Store Building To be Remodeled For Chicago Firm

Improvements Estimated At $7,500 Will Get Underway Soon

New London — Extensive remodeling and improvements at a cost of approximately $7,500 will be started soon on the former J. F. Seering building at North Water and N. Pearl streets which was purchased last Saturday by the Schultz Brothers company of Chicago. It was announced Tuesday by W. E. Ballantyne, representative of the company. The work will begin as soon as architects' plans are completed.

A modern new store front of structural glass extending along both sides of the building, a double central entrance and an east side entrance are among the improvements. The interior partition will be removed to make a large sales floor, the stairway leading to second floor physicians' and dental offices will be shifted one door west, a basement will be excavated for stock rooms and the floor of the entire building will be lowered to street level.

When opened for business the store will employ approximately 8 to 10 salesgirls. The store will continue in operation as much as possible during the alterations to dispose of the stock of the former John-Harvey business.

Temporary Manager
Temporary manager of the new business is Gordon Culbert, manager of the company's Waupaca store. He is being assisted at inventory and other preliminary business by R. B. Mayhew of Shawano, district superintendent of the company.

The store in New London is the fifth in a chain of 5-cent to 1-dollar stores being operated in Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa. Other stores operated by the company in this vicinity are at Clintonville, Waupaca and Shawano.

A. F. Schultz, Chicago, vice president of the company, was in New London last week to negotiate the purchase of the Seering building.

The fair officials also agreed upon the $75 asked by Oscar Schaub to be used as prizes in the running races. These races have always attracted a great deal of attention because they are comprised of local contestants. According to Mr. Schaub, there will be extraordinary competition for Miss Lucille Fiedler who has resigned as champion in this division for the past three years.

Third Term Was Likely Topic at Hyde Park Parley

Mr. Farley Probably Didn't Find Out Much, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Several persons who have discussed with President Roosevelt in the last few months the 1940 political situation might have little difficulty in piecing together a bit of dialogue between Postmaster General Farley and Mr. Roosevelt.

The impression derived from these informants is that Mr. Roosevelt follows the same general trend of conversation in all cases, so it may be that, in his talk with the postmaster general, he merely repeated his point of view. Here is what may have taken place, though, to be sure, not a word has come from either the White House or the chairman of the Democratic national committee since the Hyde park conference.

The president: What did you find out, Jim, in your tour of the country from the outlook?

Mr. Farley: Things look fine for 1940 provided we can clear up a few things and get started.

The president: For instance?

Mr. Farley: The question of who should be nominated.

The president: Why is that important now. It's only 1939.

Mr. Farley: Because we have got to know in order to line things up.

The president: You know now what we ought to do and so does anybody else who has followed my views for the last eleven years.

Mr. Farley: You mean what kind of a candidate?

The president: Yes. We are faced with the same forces of reaction who have raced us in the past. They are getting ready to wreck our liberal program. They claim to be for our "objectives" but they are really anxious for a chance to repeal those objectives by sabotaging all the legislation we have put on the statute books.

Mr. Farley: I haven't any sympathy with that.

The president: I know it and that's why the matter we are discussing is bigger than any person, bigger than any personal consideration involving you or me. We can't allow the work of the last six years to be overturned by a bunch of Tories and reactionaries who have fought labor and will fight it again, who have denied the farmer his

OLD WEYAUWEGA MILL MAY BE RAZED

This old mill at Weyauwega may soon give place to a soy bean mill. The present structure was built before 1880 by the Weed-Birdsall company. In 1910, when the property was sold to a group headed by D. E. Reese of Appleton, as president, and George Moody of Weyauwega, as secretary, treasurer and resident manager, the mill had a daily output of 150 barrels of rye flour. This was increased gradually, until it became known as the largest pure rye flour mill in the world, employing about twenty men. The property recently was acquired by A. J. Nichols from the city of Weyauwega, which took it over on a tax title in December, 1938.

parity prices and will do it again, and who represent the most selfish interests in this country.

Want Liberal Candidate

Mr. Farley: I agree with you, boss, that we want a liberal candidate, one who will fight to continue your policies, but this third term issue is pretty deep and may split the party.

The president: We can take care of that when it comes up. As I said before, this is 1939. To say anything one way or the other now is to divide our forces, and besides we don't know what the situation will be in 1940. Our enemies are trying to divide us, trying to drive a wedge between you and me. We have fought many a battle together and we shall fight again side by side.

Mr. Farley: I have been loyal to you in every fight. I said publicly when I was in Arizona that I found that Democrats everywhere were for you for a third term if you wanted it. Do you want it?

The president: I don't know the answer myself and besides I haven't discussed it with anybody and don't intend to this year. Let's wait and see what we are up against in 1940 when congress gets back. In the meantime, why let our enemies drag this third term issue across the face of things? Let's work together as we always have and meet the other issues when we have to.

Mr. Farley: All right, boss, I'll follow your lead, and we'll talk about it again some time when I get back from Europe.

The foregoing is not an attempt to reproduce in so many words what was actually said by the president and Mr. Farley, but merely to project the substance of their conversation, based on what has happened before when the 1940 situation has been discussed with various political leaders who have visited the White House and have endeavored to draw the president into a discussion of the third term issue.

Injustice to Mr. Farley it should be said that, so far as this correspondent knows, he has not said a word to anybody about the Hyde park conference, but there are many people in Washington who, even before the conference was scheduled, would have bet that the trend of the conversation would be along the lines quoted above because it is supposed to be the president's attitude toward the attempts to smoke him out prematurely.

WHAT TO DO FOR ECZEMA ITCHING AND BURNING

Wash the affected parts with Resinol Soap and warm water to soften scales and crusts. Resinol Soap is suggested because it contains no excess of free alkali, and cleanses the tender skin so carefully. Dry by patting with a soft cloth—do not rub.

Many doctors recommend an oily ointment because it holds the medication in contact with the irritated skin surface, giving prolonged action. Resinol Ointment meets this requirement, and does even more. For nearly 45 years it has been—and still is—successfully used to relieve quickly the itching and burning of eczema. It contains soothing ingredients that aid healing.

Use Resinol Ointment today and enjoy comfort tomorrow. Get a jar, also a cake of Resinol Soap, at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 87, Baltimore, Md.

THE SQUIRMER NOW LICKS THE HAND

Mr. Roosevelt can be the cruellest man in the world at times.

We refer to the treatment he accords that unidentified banker or business man or industrialist whom he always quotes when he fails to have his way or tries to shed an attack.

Usually this guest of his is treated in a way no host should act toward another whether guest or not. And always Mr. Roosevelt comes out of the argument beaming, colors flying, a hundred per cent victor while the fellow he has been cross-examining grovels and crawls along the floor, sweat dripping from his forehead, fear of recasting his countenance.

But when Mr. Roosevelt was displeased that the senate refused to so act in the neutrality measure that he could talk things over intimately with the king, as members of the aristocracy should and without any grimy or soiled plebeians looking on, he reversed the field and quoted a business man as telling him that such action of the senate "killed off a nice little business boom."

Though everyone has been stretching his imagination to ascertain how our refusal to get enmeshed in European wars could knock down the business boom that may be just aborning we have no wish to take issue with the President, however visionary may be the statement from the business man, whose name is never mentioned.

We think it is a suitable occasion to commend the President for actually showing some interest in such a thing as booming business and for not again torturing that unidentified business man or banker who has been so mercilessly ripped to pieces by the President's burning cross fire of questions and who always ended up by admitting the President was right, clearly right, always right and everybody else was wrong.

In this respect we differ from Senator Hiram Johnson of California, enemy of predatory wealth and predatory officials, who said the President's statement was just another piece of poppycock.

TAKE A TIP FROM DONEGAL

The American oyster industry is fighting tooth and nail to rid the country of the superstition that oysters may not be eaten safely from May to September, the old gag that the oyster months must have an R.

But it is hard to root out superstitions, particularly those having to do with health. Perhaps it were better if the industry quit appealing to logic and the medical profession and took a trip to Donegal, Ireland, where oysters recently made the front page due to the version of a story published there.

The story teller apparently was not satisfied with the public notion that oysters were always quiet and close-mouthed, minding their own business and hurting no one. He claimed the thing that aroused these oysters, who made a practice of coming out on the beach each night for a little conference, was a wretched trick hatched by the rats who decided to eat the oysters when the latter opened their shells a little to get a breath of fresh air in the hot season. So the story continues:

"There were the oysters, in quiet or reflective mood, obviously off their guard. So the rats charged down like the wolf on the fold. Next night there were the oysters again looking innocent as ever. Again the rats attacked. This has been repeated every night since. But it is a great, uneven struggle. The embittered oysters of Donegal are no pushovers. In fact they have turned out to be fighting fools. Each time the rats attack the oysters close their shells, so as to take a good grip on the rats' snout. Then the oysters sit tight not striking another blow. Pretty soon the tide comes in, after which the rats are no good any more."

Here is an oyster characteristic of which the world has been ignorant. It is just a little story from Donegal that has placed the oyster in a new and higher niche, one adorned with sagacity and courage. No one knowing the people from Donegal would ever doubt its truth.

And if the American oyster industry will go to Donegal just to verify the story and witness the battle they may become fired with such enthusiasm for oysters they are bound to impregnate everyone in America. Then Americans will abolish that foolish jingle about summer oysters and eat them on the first of August.

RICH BUT DISORDERLY TOO

New York prosecutors have worked out a clever method of disposing of rich vice lords as was shown by the case of Frank Erickson called the biggest gambler in the country.

Great difficulty had been experienced in obtaining evidence that Erickson actually was the owner of certain "bookie" establishments. Stogges were always on hand to take the responsibility. But the authorities "knew in their bones" that Erickson was the real power and had found evidence of his corrupting hand in high places.

So he was arrested as "a disorderly person" under a law which reads that "persons who have no visible profession or calling by which to maintain themselves . . . are disorderly persons." Mr. Erickson brought to court $125,000 in securities and proved that he had another $200,000 interest in a legitimate business venture. With this capital of about $325,000 he asked how he could be without "a visible profession or calling by which to maintain" himself.

But the New York judge ruled that the ownership of wealth did not prevent a man from being convicted as a disorderly person, that Erickson was such disorderly person and that he could have one of two alternatives, either six months in jail or the posting of a bond for his full compliance with the law for a similar period and the forfeiture thereof, of course, if he continued his underworld activities.

Erickson presents one of the prime difficulties in dealing with crime, a problem not unlike that presented by Jimmy Hines. He was careful to live in a respectable neighborhood and to behave with due attention to every law excepting that having to do with gambling. He was adept at securing the influence of powerful personages among those whose duty it was to enforce the law. Erickson also indicated restraint and fast, smooth thinking. He had the judgment in respect to his operations that is expected of a far-sighted business man in protecting and stimulating the enterprise with which he is identified.

But if the higher court sustains the trial court Erickson will understand how Cornwallis felt after Yorktown.

"DIXIE" WORE SILK

The Sulka Company, expensive Fifth Avenue haberdashery, has sued "Dixie" Davis, lawyer criminal convict turned writer, and the details of its claim against this prisoner at Sing Sing are an interesting commentary on the high and noble life of racketeering and political high-binding.

It seems that Mr. Davis sauntered into the Sulka store feeling that it was about time he had some new clothes. Thereupon he ordered 16 shirts at $18.25 each, 17 neckties at $5.50 each, 18 handkerchiefs at $3 each, 3 pair of hose at $4.75 a pair and 4 pair of hose at $5.25 a pair. Upon other occasions Mr. Davis had purchased from the same firm cuff links at $85 a set, bathrobes at $100 each and BVD's at $12.50 a pair.

We suppose that if Mr. Davis minutely examined the remaining pattern of his life when he was in the big money he would find a large part of it equally useless. Actually he is serving a term in prison because he glowed at the pleasure of spending large sums of money although he may have gained as much warmth and even appeared as well dressed had he spent less.

REALLY ASHAMED

Jesse Jones, formerly of the RFC, declined point blank to testify concerning the terrific losses the country faces because of its loan policies. "We are going to have plenty of losses," said Mr. Jones, but when pressed to estimate whether they would run as high as 20 per cent of the moneys loaned, he answered: "I am ashamed to tell you what I think they will be but it will be plenty."

Nevertheless the administration bowls its way along perfectly oblivious to the fact that if you build merely duplicating industrial plants to manufacture articles of which the country already has sufficiency there is bound to be a loss everywhere excepting to those who work upon the building.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE MINOR POET

My mind is like a pool I watch
Beside and vainly wish
That I could sink a line and catch
A truly gorgeous fish!

But when the words (or fishes) climb
To my bait, there's a lack!
They have no silver scales this time,
And so I throw them back!

With what high majesty the sky
Bends to a little pool
And what enchanting fishes lie
Below, serene and cool!

I sit upon the bank and wait
For fishes fair to see.
I wish I knew the proper bait
To coax them up to me!

SUPPORTS THE PRESIDENT
Alf M. Landon strikes the note of non-partisanship in foreign affairs. At the Kansas City conference of United Methodists he spoke as the Republican nominee for president in 1936. "It is always a dangerous thing for a political leader to cross party lines," he began. "Nevertheless, to support my president, I do so." His support is limited to upholding President Roosevelt's proposal, rejected by Hitler, for an international conference convened to work out a lasting peace plan. Landon thinks the Fuehrer

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Interview in wait time:
Good evening Mr. Wayne (the Waltz) King. Good evening.

Long time no see, Wayne. Long time since I danced to your music at the Aragon Ballroom in Chicago. It's nice seeing you here at the Roosevelt Grill where another Chicago dance band—Guy Lombardo's—made its New York reputation. Is this the same band you had in Chicago.

The very same. I've had the same musicians in the band so long that I can remember the time when they had hair on their heads. I can even remember when they were single. Now they're all married, and most of them are papas.

Tell me, Wayne, how did you happen to specialize in waltzes?

We don't. People get the idea we are exponents of the waltz when as a matter of fact we play no more waltzes than most other bands. We are a "sweet" band. Most listeners don't trouble to count one-two-three, and consequently they sometimes assume we are playing waltzes when in reality we are playing fox trots. Even when we perform "hot" numbers we do them with dignity.

But, Wayne, with my own ears I've heard you play waltzes over the radio.

Granted. The music for radio and the music for dancers are entirely different. We have this theory; people who remain at home listening to us through their loud-speakers do so because they would rather relax. Many people have written me that they go to sleep to Wayne King's music. That is a high compliment. When we play into the microphone we play to soothe listeners, to rest them, to help them down from the strain and tension of living. When we play for dancers our programming is different. We assume that the customers have come out for the evening to have a good time; to dance. We direct our efforts to that end.

Do you believe there is a trend away from "hot" swing music, Wayne?

Let me answer your question this way: dance bands today are definite molders of lives. You have seen what often happens when "hot" bands play. The youngsters jump around and work themselves into frenzies. The "hot" bands contribute to, or reflect, the jittery state of mind. We, on the other hand, assume that ladies and gentlemen come to places where we are playing because they like each other and enjoy dancing together. Our music is aimed to emphasize the finest phases of their sentiment; to contribute to their intelligent enjoyment, not to emotional inflammation. Hundreds of young men and women have told me that our music cemented their fondness for each other and led to their marriage. I feel so deeply concerning a dance band's influence upon the nation's adolescents that I will not lend myself to any type of playing which might arouse false or hysterical emotions. To me dancing is a beautiful experience, not an exhibition of uncontrolled savagery. Is that clear?

Perfectly. This being your first New York engagement after many years in Chicago, how do you like us?

New York is swell. I would like to stay here. Listen! That number the boys are playing now. They never saw the music before, yet they are playing it smoothly and correctly. That is what makes me proud. They are musicians! They could play a symphony as well as the simplest dance tune. Any musician can play notes. It is the added something which gives to their playing that makes a band distinctive.

I notice you use few vocals, Mr. King, and that yours is one of the few bands without a girl vocalist.

Yes. We play for people to dance. Look around the room. Nearly everyone here is on the floor dancing. Should we give them singers when what they prefer is terpsichore?

Is there any general premise for a dance band's success, Mr. King?

There is one in which I firmly believe: people are good. I like them. Happiness should be their heritage. Only by liking them and seeking constantly to contribute to their enjoyment and our own can we be of service to them and ourselves.

You are a philosopher, Wayne King.

I am a bandmaster with a soul, Dale Harrison. Don't tell anyone, though. Some, you know, like 'em hot.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, July 29, 1914

Outstanding developments of the day in the Balkan situation saw Austria formally declare war on Serbia, hostilities already were in progress and mediation was given a death blow when Austria and Germany rejected Great Britain's plan for negotiations. Europe was taking enormous quantities of gold from America in preparing for war. Markets of the world were demoralized by prospects of war as wheat rose and European stocks declined. Russia warned it would make war on Austria if Serbia was invaded. Germany was ready to mobilize army if Russia made war on Austria. France awaited decision of Russia and was in readiness.

The bureau of census of the United States department of commerce estimated the population of Appleton on July 1, 1914 at 17,492.

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, July 23, 1929

By its own terms, the Kellogg-Brand treaty for renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy became effective at noon that day with the deposit by Japan at the state department of its formal instrument of adherence. Forty-six nations had signed the pact.

Completing 269 hours of continuous flying at noon that day, Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, new world endurance flight champions, were still circling in the St. Louis Robin above Lambert-St. Louis field with no signs of weakening. They had bettered the former mark by more than 22 hours.

"Leaves the door slightly open for further discussion of the common destinies of the common people of this world," He says:

"Discussion is the only way known to man to settle angry disputes, whether public or private. It has the wisdom of ages behind it. I think we can and should support 'the president' for a peace conference, and urge him to take such advantages of further discussion as Hitler's reply offers. . . . Discussion and negotiation in conference are the only effective means available to modern men to postpone and avert war."

Landon evidently intended criticism when saying "the president has abandoned neutrality," but he made it plain that he has no sympathy with utterances on foreign affairs which are colored by partisan motives and tend to cause lack of confidence in the conduct of foreign relations.

Living in retirement at Topeka, at a distance from the strife in Washington, Landon has been in a position to sense feeling and thought among the people. After its minimization since Hitler's speech, Landon's endorsement properly renewed at the first opportunity. While development of the Roosevelt peace appeal, urging its opponents do not as yet encourage hopes, the president's attempt had American approval and further efforts he may make in behalf of a peace conference will have the same public support.—Detroit News.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Anybody wishing to remain cool and collected this summer should harden himself to atrocity stories on the one hand and to war prospect stories on the other. They have already begun to arrive.

A member of the French mission recently over here to inspect supply sources said his country intended to buy much steel and brass tubing partially shaped for shells and guns. That way, he said, they could be shipped without conflict with the munitions embargo act. The state department had to correct that story by pointing out that munitions could not be shipped out even in a semi-manufactured shape.

During the World War England had a carefully organized propaganda department with a home division, an American division, an Asiatic division and all the rest. Germany had a similar organization, although the Germans had difficulty getting out their stuff as England controlled the cables.

Hugh Wilson, ambassador to Germany now biding his time in this country, helps sum up the situation in his book, "The Education of a Diplomat."

All the time that the British, French and Americans were being horrified by stories of the terrible Germans, who cut off the hands of little Belgian boys and boiled dead Allied soldiers to get the grease, Germany was keeping up the morale of its own public with similar stories.

Tender German mothers with schoolboy sons at the front were told that troops from the wilds of Canada and Australia refused to take prisoners. They bayoneted or blew up all the Germans they could catch.

Hawaii Complaints

But we must get on to pleasanter subjects. John Snell, Secretary of the Hawaii Equal Rights Commission, writes from Honolulu that we were unfair in referring to Hawaii as an "Island possession" in a recent epic from our typewriter. Hawaii, he said, is like Texas in that it came into the union voluntarily and was not snatched, as were the Philippines.

That is all true enough, Hawaii is a piece of the United States historically, strategically and sentimentally.

A Half-Cent Coin?
Moreover, we have meant for a long time to tell you about Jean M. Craik of Andover, Massachusetts, who writes in that she is more than a little tired of being bargained out of a penny or into an extra pound by those stores which advertise "two pounds for 17 cents." If you buy one pound, she says, you lose a half cent. If you buy two pounds, you have too much.

"The coin that ought to be minted now," she said, "is a half-cent piece. Then we wouldn't be swindled out of whole pennies by these ubiquitous stores that price everything so that if one doesn't buy two pounds or two dozen he always has to give them an extra half cent." She concedes it seems sort of hopeless, because if you want to buy a 14 cent stamp it costs two cents, and that puts the government in the business.

Senatorial Scholarship
But for untouchable logic we refer you to Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader. He was defending the poet, Archibald MacLeish, newly-appointed congressional librarian, from senatorial criticism. A certain magazine article about which the senators were carping should not be counted, Senator Barkley said, for it was written several months ago before Mr. MacLeish knew he was to be librarian.

"It came out in May," said Barkley, "and was undoubtedly written before May. Most articles in magazines are written in advance of their publication."

Defiant

Speaking of his "board of directors"—the senators and assemblymen—he fretfully pointed out that they had refused to follow his lead in reorganizing the state highway commission. But he promised the "highway commission is going to get a going-over anyhow."

More interesting was his comment on the pension question, of which most politicians are profoundly scared and have been for several years.

Talking about taxes, and his determination to lower them, he observed that lower taxes and higher pensions can't be reconciled. Although he stands by his promise to give the "old folks a little more," he doesn't want "them to be millionaires at the expense of the taxpayers."

Moreover, some old folks "wouldn't know what to do with it" if they were to get $30 a month.

The governor's peevishness toward the newspapers was a little surprising, the first public admission that criticism is affecting him. It was the more surprising to those who have felt that the Wisconsin press, never radical and generally friendly to conservatives, has shown considerable restraint toward the Heil administration.

Moreover, while his predecessor, Phil LaFollette, used to select particular newspapers for his denunciation, Heil attacked the whole field in general.

Political Study

Heil on the platform is an interesting subject for the political psychologist, particularly since his audiences are uniformly appreciative. He is the hired man reporting on the progress of the job he was sent to Madison to do. The very antithesis of the intellectual, with never a reference to the emotional issues of the day which so appeal to the more orthodox politician, Heil talks of saving $14,000 on university dormitory furniture, on economizing on lead pencils and ink in the state-house, on his personal campaign to get everybody to drink predigesters. THE BIG ELECTIONS AREN'T UNTIL 1940

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—To get an idea of what Julius P. Heil is doing and going to do nowadays, it is necessary to follow him on one of his frequent excursions into rural Wisconsin where he gives the people an account of his stewardship.

Such an occasion was the picnic last Sunday at Bear Lake, Waupaca county community, where his excellency revealed, among many others, these things which a lot of people didn't know before:

That he will revamp the state highway commission in spite of the fact that the legislature defeated his reorganization bill;

That he won't approve old age pensions in excess of $30 a month.

That he is exceedingly annoyed at the treatment the Wisconsin press has given his administration, so annoyed that he expressed the idea that 90 per cent of the newspapermen of the state, when writing about him, "are liars."

That he aims at restoring milk prices to $1.60 a hundred at least.

Personal Health Talks

THE POSTURE OF HEALTH

Any one forms a first impression of a new acquaintance largely by observing the individual's posture. One may not do so consciously but nevertheless posture has a good deal to do with the picture of the individual automatically registered in one's mind. To pleasant collection; if the posture is poor there is a tendency to dislike or at least forget the individual—unless he or she happens to exert other influences which overcome or outweigh the P. I.

It is not merely that good posture is such a large factor of P. A. either. Personal appearance of itself is of minor importance in comparison with other factors of identity or individuality or character which determine one's respect or liking for an acquaintance.

Here we can define only what constitutes good posture and mention casually some of the more familiar manifestations or effects of faulty posture. Obviously a good deal depends on the education received in childhood and youth, particularly the physical education, which is still sadly neglected in school systems. In the individual, however, not so obviously, happens but to a far greater degree than heretofore recognized, the body posture, good or bad, depends on the state of nutrition. The familiar slouch or slump of fatigue affords an indication of the influence of nutrition on posture.

Posture is graded as A (excellent), B (good), C (poor) or D (bad) in the profile; as I (excellent), II (good), III (poor) or IV (bad) in front view. In the excellent (A) profile when the individual stands barefoot or without heels, the opening of the ear, the bony tip of the shoulder, the trochanter or bony prominence of the hip and the malleolus or outer prominence of the ankle are on a plumb line. In the excellent (I) front view posture the shoulders are perfectly level, the curves at the waist are equal, the hips level, the knees, ankles and great toes touch each other easily, but a space is visible between the insteps.

Among the faults noted in the measurement of defective posture are head forward, chest sunken, belly relaxed and sagging so that it seems to protrude more or less in the "pot-belly" form, forward curve of back exaggerated more or less in the "sway-back" form, round shoulders, tilted pelvis ("high hip"), spinal curvature ("high shoulder"), knock knees or sprung knees, bow legs, pronated or potential flat feet (absence of space between insteps), depressed diaphragm having poor excursion, reduced vital capacity, shallow breathing, short-windedness, in persons over thirty obesity of relaxed and flabby type, incomplete pulmonary ventilation, reduced oxygenation of the blood, low vitality reserve, hypertrophic arthritis, radioculitis (something called intercostal neuralgia), even strain of the eye muscles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Blow Easily If At All

Is blowing the nose a cause of sinus trouble or does it tend to aggravate such trouble? What is the proper way to blow the nose? (A. W. MacK.)

Answer—Forceful blowing of the nose may excite sinus trouble. It is always better to blow very gently if at all, as a child does. Do not pinch the nostrils, but hold hand- guidance to the growing boy, to the pride of milk.

Julius Heil will draw a crowd wherever he goes, in campaign or out.

Away out West, where the crops are nil.
And they soak the hogs so they'll hold their swill.
And the bullfrogs drown when the rains do come.
For they never have learned to swim.
By Gum,
A little town that is just a dot
On the map of a place that God forgot.
Built a bathhouse, and dug a pool,
To dunk the people and keep them cool.
The water came from a shallow well.
With pump and motor, it sure was swell.
The people flocked from the countryside.
They came in bunches from far and wide.
And round ladies and real he-men.
Swam, and played they were kids again.
And every swimmer was watched with care
To see they always came up for air.
And each before they came in the gate,
Laid a quarter upon the plate.
So pool and bathhouse, to all so dear.
Was paid in quarters the first "bad year."
Now those kids swim, tho the hot winds blow.
BUT WHERE CAN THE APPLETON KIDDIES GO?

WPA Steps Into Buchholz, City Fight Over Rates

Threatens to End District Project Unless Agreement Is Reached

The Green Bay district office of the WPA has stepped into the controversy between Appleton and the Buchholz Sanitary district over sewage service rates set up by the Appleton board of public works and has threatened to discontinue the Buchholz project July 31 if an agreement is not reached.

A copy of the letter, signed by Mark Muth, director of the WPA district, sent to Thomas Heitz, secretary of the Buchholz district, was received by Mayor Goodland Tuesday.

When the works board set the rates for the use of Appleton's sewerage and disposal facilities, the Buchholz district, in a letter to the mayor, rejected them and threatened to go to the public service commission for a reduction. The works board retaliated with a letter refusing to construct an Appleton sewer and disposal facilities.

The WPA is concerned, Muth said, in the letter, because "it is the policy of the WPA not to construct any public improvements for which there will be no utility." Muth said his office was under the impression that the city and the district had agreed on the rates and that the city had granted the use of the sewerage facilities.

Rates Offered
The rates set by the board of public works are $12 for residences not having more than two families; $18 for business places classified as those selling at retail; and $35 for taverns.

Muth's letter follows in part: "... We have been advised that you have rejected the city of Appleton's offer and that they in turn have withdrawn the offer. It is the policy of the Works Progress Administration to construct and public improvements for which there will be no utility. Therefore, unless a copy of an agreement between the Buchholz Sanitary district and the city of Appleton authorizing you to discharge sewage from the sanitary district sewers into Appleton sewers is in the hands of this office in seven days, we will discontinue work on your project as of July 31."

Women Suspected of Forgery in City are Given Prison Terms

Police Chief George T. Prim reported this morning that two women suspected of passing worthless checks in Appleton July 8 were sentenced in Manitowish municipal court yesterday to a year to 18 months each at Taycheedah on a similar count.

The two women who pleaded guilty of forging and passing checks in Manitowish gave their names as Loversa Gorder, 24, and Enid Nejedlik, 27. They told Manitowish authorities their homes are in Green Bay. Police Chief Prim said that one worthless check for $10 endorsed by a Severa Gothompson, who is believed to be the Loversa Gorder sentenced yesterday was cashed at Geenen's July 8 and another for $9 signed by a Mrs. Austin Nejdolic, alias Jean Bailey, at the J. C. Penney company. He said the women also are wanted at Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, and Madison.

Seek 2 Lost in Northwest Woods

Six-Year-Old Boy, Chicago Man Objects of Searching Parties

Minneapolis, Minn. (P)—Dense northwest woods were searched today for two missing persons, one a six-year-old boy, Russell Jensen, and the other F. C. Lambert, 53, Chicago fisherman.

Grave fears for the safety of the child mounted after a huge searching party of some 500 people failed to run down tracks of the child at nightfall Tuesday, nearly 48 hours after he disappeared from the shores of Lake Kabeokna, near LaPorte, 175 miles northwest of here.

First word of Lambert's disappearance was brought to a camp on Lake Manitowish, 50 miles north of the Canadian border town of International Falls, Minn., by D. K. McMillen, also of Chicago, last Sunday. He said they became separated while returning to camp from a fishing trip.

Whether the Jensen child could survive two nights in the Paul Bunyan forest, where he was lost without food and possibly water and what little rest he could get disturbed by hordes of mosquitoes and vicious-biting deer flies was problematical. One bloodhound which picked up his trail ran into a hornet's nest and was stung so seriously he had to be taken back to a searcher's camp.

Waterways Bloc Is Defeated in Vote on Transportation Bill

Washington (P)—The house defeated today a transportation bill to eliminate from the omnibus transportation bill a section to subject water carriers to regulation by the interstate commerce commission.

It refused to adopt an amendment by Representative South (D-Texas) which would have stricken from the bill the entire section dealing with water carrier regulation. The teller vote was 144 to 167.

106 Valley Council Scouts At Gardner Dam This Week

Gardner Dam — A crowd of 106 valley council scouts arrived at Gardner Dam Sunday for the third week of the summer camping session.

Monday afternoon a baseball team made up of Menasha Wooden Ware scouts played White Lake and after being behind for 8 innings came out ahead as a result of a homer by Hoks with the bases loaded. Beschowski, Bud Bever, G. Erders, and Sam Porter.

Four swimming classes were organized Tuesday, with three in the morning and one class of 15 boys in the afternoon who are studying life saving.

Tuesday afternoon a number of the boys took a hike over to the firetower, led by Bob Lang.

Two Menasha boys, Ronnie Clough and Francis Staniak of the Menasha Wooden Ware troop, arrived in camp after making the trip on their bikes. They left Menasha at 4 o'clock Monday morning and arrived in camp at 8:30 Tuesday morning tired but smiling.

Investigating, Schoenrock said, they saw Devroy running in a crouch past the rows of corn. Covering him with a rifle, Schoenrock ordered him to come out with his hands up. Devroy stopped and Schoenrock repeated the command. There was a muffled report and the fugitive fell to the ground. A few seconds later another report followed.

disputed contention that the government would lose no money under the proposed public works financing program.

Resuming debate on the measure in the senate, Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky argued that by the terms of legislation authorizing the program "all the money advanced will be recoverable."

He called attention of his colleagues to the fact that the treasury already holds approximately $4,000,000,000 of "recoverable assets."

Losses Not Estimated
Senator Byrd (D-Va.) immediately challenged the statement with the assertion that "many of those assets are not recoverable and it should be made clear that they are not."

Replying, Barkley quoted from a treasury report to the effect that no effort had been made to estimate potential losses on the assets.

"I'm not trying to mislead the senate and I don't think the treasury is trying to mislead the senate," he added.

Regarding the projected $500,000,000 road-building phase of the program, he said he would oppose any amendment to make imposition of tolls mandatory.

The method of financing the roads should be left up to individual states and communities, the majority leader said, but the federal government should make sure its loans would be repaid.

Barkley said it was possible that states and communities might set aside a portion of their revenues to pay for the road.

Flying Brothers Having Troubles

Refueling Accident and Storm Result in Bad Night in the Air

Springfield, Ill. (P)—The flying Moody brothers had their troubles last night, but remained in the air to pass their 65th hour aloft at eight a. m. today.

Hunter Moody reported he and his brother, Humphrey, were nearly forced to land during a refueling contact when a parachute attached to a gasoline can opened just as it was being lifted into their monoplane.

The small 'chute, used in dropping the empty gasoline cans to earth, tangled in the ship's tail assembly, and the fliers went some five miles over fields at an altitude of approximately 20 feet before they could shake off the burden. They lost a refueling rope during the incident.

During part of the night, they flew through a brilliant electrical storm.

Hunter said by radio today, "All in all, it was a very rough night." The men are attempting to break the plane endurance record of 218 hours.

Georgian Charges Sabbath 'Stalling' On Wage-Hour Bill

Washington (P)—Representative C. C. C. of the house rules committee today of "stalling" efforts to give the house a chance to vote on revision of the wage-hour law at this session.

"All right," shouted Sabbath in reply, "if I am, I'm stalling in a good cause."

"I'm getting fed up on some of the remarks you've been making. I've got a better record than you have in reporting legislation to the floor. I've never held up a single bill."

"My record must be a poor one if it's worse than yours," snapped Cox. The spat came at the end of a session during which the committee heard further testimony on a bill by Representative Barden (D-N. C.) to relax provisions of the wage-hour law as they apply to workers engaged in processing and handling agricultural commodities.

Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator and house labor committee member are opposed to Barden's bill on the ground that it would "go too far" in exempting persons they contend actually are engaged in industry.

Wouldbe Extortionist Sentenced to Prison

Madison (P)—Thomas V. Morse, 34, of Plattville was sentenced in federal court yesterday to serve 18 months in Leavenworth penitentiary for writing an extortion letter threatening to kidnap the wife of a prominent Plattville physician.

Morse pleaded guilty to an indictment charging that on June 5 he demanded $500 from Dr. W. W. Cunningham in a letter which said: "If you say a word to anyone or fail to leave part of the money, your wife will be kidnapped and murdered—I mean business."

Morse's wife, mother of two children, was in court when he was sentenced. His attorney, John E. Grindell, of Plattville told Judge Patrick T. Stone the defendant had been harassed by debts and had "an inherited weakness of mind."

Judge Stone indicated the prisoner might be transferred from Leavenworth to the federal prison-hospital at Springfield, Mo., but that this could not be done until he had been examined by physicians.

Cooler Weather Is Forecast; Mercury Climbs to New High

Oppressive heat continued unabated today but the weatherman has ventured a prediction of fair and cooler weather tonight and Thursday. It's a cinch that it won't get much warmer for the mercury in the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building rocketed up to a high mark for the season of 95 degrees early this afternoon.

Many residents of Appleton and vicinity reported a sleepless night as temperatures ranged in a high bracket during the 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning. Highest and lowest temperatures were 89 degrees and 69 degrees, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Light, very light, showers were about all the menaon clouds could produce yesterday afternoon and the slight precipitation did little towards cooling the atmosphere or lessening the high humidity.

A good deal of construction work has been curtailed while business and commercial activities have been reduced to a minimum because of the intense heat. Swimming spots are doing a rush business, parks have been crowded with picnickers and many have taken to the highways in an effort to escape the smothering conditions.

Iced drinks and light foods are principle items on current menus while many housewives have put off ironing Monday's washing in hopes things will cool off a bit. Pumpage at the city water works has shown a sharp increase the last few days.

Maximum and minimum temperatures reported in the nation yesterday at official weather bureau stations were 110 degrees at Phoenix, Ariz., and 52 degrees at Modena, Utah, and Yellowstone, Wyo.

FACE WATER SHORTAGE

New York (P)—With scant relief in sight, the drought-stricken north-east faced water shortage today in some communities and an increased hazard of forest fires in timber-dry woodlands.

The damage to crops in 10 states stood in the millions. In parts of Pennsylvania, a 50 per cent crop failure was predicted as a result of it; worst drought in nine years.

Scattered electrical storms brought a little rain to parts of New England. Hallstones resembling golf balls fell last night in the areas of Farmington and Clinton, Mass., smashing nearly 3,000 window panes and flattening parched crops.

Dwindling supplies of water for drinking and power harassed parts of New York state. Residents of Schenectady were advised to "go easy on the water." A temporary chlorinating system and water pumped from a nearby village relieved an acute shortage at Nassau, where residents were without water for six hours yesterday.

New Jersey farmers reported heavy losses in dairying, field crops and produce, and increased damage to fruit trees.

Forest fires in New Jersey and Pennsylvania were checked. Fifty inmates of an institution for delinquents and 100 CCC members aided in fighting New York state's most serious blaze at Stony falls, near Ellenville—a fire which destroyed an estimated 1,000 acres of forest in five days.

Neenah Teacher Completes Geneological Table of Doty Family After Long Research

Neenah—After several years of research, Harvey Leaman, Neenah high school instructor and attendant at the Doty cabin during the summers, has completed the geneological table of the historic Doty family.

Leaman has been working on the history of the Doty family for several years, but until this summer, several phases in the geneological table weren't completed and other facts were unverified.

With the acquisition of a book, "The Doty-Dolan Family in America," compiled by Ethan Allen Doty in 1897, Leaman was able to complete the table as well as verify information he had secured and correct mistaken information.

The Doty cabin, which is located in Doty park, rapidly is becoming a mecca for tourists and historians in this part of the state, and according to Leaman, a record has been established this summer in the number of persons from practically every state in the nation who have visited the landmark.

The Doty cabin was built by Governor James Duane Doty when he retired as a congressman in 1853, and he and his family lived in the log building until 1864. The cabin, which has been preserved in its original state, contains enough articles used by the Doty family as well as other articles during that period to be a museum.

Back to Mayflower The geneological table, Leaman has found, goes back to the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. The great great great great great grandfather of Wisconsin's first territorial governor, James Duane Doty, was named Edward, and he did come over in the Mayflower.

The high school instructor has found that Edward also signed the famous Mayflower compact, but he was an indentured servant and couldn't even write his own name, using a crescent shaped mark for a signature. Edward was born in 1589, but whether he was born in England, France or Germany can't be determined.

Edward, according to the historian, was impetuous, and on one exploring expedition the boy, who wanted to be the first to step on new land, was chastized for taking the privilege away from the leader.

The first Doty in America, who was a leathermaker and then became a landowner, was married to Fayth Clark, and they had nine children, and their eighth child was Joseph, the next descendant in that branch of the family.

Became Landholders Leaman pointed out that every member in that branch of the family were landholders; in fact, the governor probably acquired more Wisconsin land than any that preceded him.

Joseph was born in Plymouth in 1631 and he was a surveyor as well as a landholder. He was married three times, having two children with Elizabeth Warren, whom he married in 1674 and died three years later. The following year he married Deborah Hatch with whom he had seven children. She died in 1711 and he married Sarah Edwards in 1712.

Ellis, the next descendant, probably was the son of Deborah, and he was born in 1681 at Sandwich, Mass. He married a girl by the name of Eleanor. Her maiden name is unknown. They had six children, one of whom was Edward, the next in line. Little is known about Ellis.

Was Sea Captain Edward, who was a farmer, was married to Mary Andrews. He was born in Rochester in 1705, and little is known about him except that he had a son named Theodorius, the late Doty's great grandfather. Theodorius was born in Rochester in 1737 and was married to Jane Densmore with whom he had seven children. He was a sea captain for several years as well as a wealthy landowner.

Chillus, the son of Theodorius, was the governor's father, and he probably was the most energetic member of the family. He was born in Salem, N. Y., in 1764 and was married to Sarah Martin, daughter of Colonel Adams Martin in Duanesburg, N. Y. The name of the place probably accounts for the governor's second name, Duane, Leaman declared. Chillus promoted the city of Martinsburg, and some of his titles were innkeeper, sheriff, supervisor, state assemblyman, county surrogate, assessor, and county judge.

Chillus had three children, Baron Stuben, Lanada, who died when one year old, and James Duane. James was born in Salem Nov. 5, 1799.

Leaman also pointed out that all male members of the Doty family, who were living during the Revolutionary war, fought on the side of the Colonies.

James Duane was married to Sarah Collins in 1843 in Whitesboro, N. Y., and she died in Oshkosh Feb. 20, 1871.

So far as Leaman has been able to determine, that branch, directly at least, has died out, although one of the grandsons of James may have had a son. He has four children, Charles, who was born in 1824; James, who was born in 1827 and died in 1857; Amelia, who was born in 1829 and died in 1831 and Mary, who was born in 1832. James never married, and while Mary was married, she had no children. Charles had three sons, Webster, who didn't marry; Bradley, who had no children, and Edmund, who had one son, Arden Duane. The latter was born in Illinois in 1878, but nothing is known about Arden or his probable descendants.

According to Leaman's brief sketch of the governor, "James Duane Doty was a self-made man with unusual energy. In his youth, he studied law, settling in Detroit in 1818 where he was admitted to practice before the supreme court. While in Detroit, he was a member of the territorial council and clerk of court. When 22 years of age, Doty went to Washington where he was admitted to practice before the United States supreme court."

In 1873, President Monroe appointed him judge of all the territory west of Lake Michigan, and he held his court at Prairie du Chien. As a member of the Michigan Territorial legislature, he introduced the bill creating Wisconsin as a separate territory. In 1838 he represented the new territory in Congress and was appointed governor in 1841 by President Tyler.

"In 1848, Doty was a member of the first state constitutional convention and represented the third district in congress for two terms. He retired in 1853 and moved to Neenah, but Abraham Lincoln appointed him superintendent of Indian affairs for the Northwest territory in 1861, and in 1864 he was appointed governor of the Territory of Utah, which post he held until his death June 13, 1865."

Hollywood — Offhand, I can't think of a more amusing or pungent comment on the Hollywood "star system" than the one offered by Paramount's current offering, "Beau Geste."

Three actors — Gary Cooper, Ray Milland and Robert Preston — receive star billing. All advertising copy displays their names in poster-sized type. They will be the ones featured in the lobby displays and in the marquee lights.

Yet the real star of the picture is Brian Donlevy, who is barely mentioned as a member of the supporting cast. As the villainous Sergeant Markoff, he dominates the entire picture. He plays in at least seven-tenths of all the scenes. His is the only "characterization" worthy of mention. The plot hinges on him. Cooper, Milland and particularly Preston have, by comparison, walk-through bits so lacking in force that the average fan, on leaving the theater, will remember just one personality—Donlevy.

I'm not trying to detract from the credit due the three nominal stars, each of whom makes the most of his part. I'm simply pointing out the fact that a foolish system is responsible for a glaring attempt at injustice. Donlevy carried the picture—Donlevy, then, should get the credit. And if Hollywood producers think for one moment that they can fool the public by the size of type in which they print an actor's name, they are deluding themselves. John and IDOL CHATTER: The current crop of screen stars have gone so prosaic that even those patched overalls of Katie Hepburns would be a welcome sight. In-a-word description of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.: son-sational. I seriously doubt Vincent Price's screen future — his handwriting is very un-stellarly legible. Hollywood encyclopedia of current events: Binnie Barnes — an authority on everything from athletics to fine arts. I suppose we should smile tolerantly at Mickey Rooney's cheery reference to gals in his pictures as "Rooney's Rugging Rascals." Peas-in-a-pod: Composer Johnnie Mercer and Herbert Marshall. A nod to Comedian Bob Coote for his observation that the average screen siren, given an inch, wants to be a ruler. By the way, have you seen that male heart-throb driving around in his snappy new toupee?

None of our stellar ranchers take their hobby more seriously than Allan Jones, who is a partner in a San Fernando Valley horse ranch. I encountered him in a Boulevard hardware store this morning — and stared a good long minute before recognizing him. And no wonder, for the usually immaculate Mr. Jones was wearing a two-day growth of beard and the most disreputable pair of overalls ever seen in these parts. "Hardly knew you," I offered, lamely. Allan laughed. "Neither did Wendy Barrie," he said. "I pulled my truck up beside her car at a traffic stop a few minutes ago and waved to her. She started fuming about 'fresh mugs' and looked for a cop!"

Speaking of ranchers, Director Frank Lloyd, who goes in for poultry, has contracted to deliver seventy-five turkeys a week to a local market. The average director considers himself busy if he delivers four turkeys a year. (Copyright, 1939, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

According to George Tubbs, superintendent of the contest, this will be one with more spirit and competition than in previous fairs. Some of the former owners of teams and winners in the contests are buying new teams and horses, and are training their horses for the coming event.

The prizes awarded this year will be in two classes for teams weighing less than 3,000 pounds and for teams weighing 3,000 pounds and over. Teams from all over the county will participate in this contest.

Variety of Early Settlers Marks History of Green Bay

BY PHIL JEWELL NICHOLS
(Mrs. Angus F. Lockwood)
The Waukegan village at Red Banks, twelve miles or so northeast from the present site of the city of Green Bay, was no doubt the first human group habitation to be recorded in this region. This town was palisaded and fortified and had at the east and south several hundred acres of garden plots where corn, beans, squashes and pumpkins were raised. There were burial mounds here and the indications were that the locality had been inhabited continuously and hardly defended for many generations. Long after the coming of Nicolet, this region kept the name of La Baye des Puants after the French interpretation of the Algonquian word for the Winnebago. Finally they left their ancient home and moved on up the Fox by degrees, leaving the place and set up homes here. No doubt the community had a stockade about it, a small chapel within, and homes of boatmen and mechanics as well as traders and gardeners growing in the fields beyond with the French-Canadian "habitant" thoroughly at home.

Menominee Peaceful
For nearly a century after its discovery, largely because of French court politics, La Baye did not make the advancement which Champlain had expected of it. The Fox Indians, who held the most strategic points along the upper Fox-Wisconsin route became very antagonistic to settlers and traders, the British were making their way westward, and all the Wisconsin Indians were by turns on the warpath, either with the French against the English or the English against the French or with one another. The tribe which held peace most and longest was the Menominee, probably because of the numerous French marriages among them.

The Fox-Wisconsin route was a continuous battle ground during these years, so that in 1699 so dangerous was the region that the missionary priest, Father Saint-Cosme, could not use the route and was obliged to take the path along the west shore of Lake Michigan and over the Chicago portage. While the Fox wars raged up and down the river, La Baye was occupied only intermittently and many of the Indian-intermarried French took to the woods and lived among the Menominee entirely. With the establishment of a permanent French fort, Fort St. Francis, in 1721, more protection was given the community and La Baye picked up its lost strands.

The missionaries had been persistent. Father Albouin began a mission at Red Banks in 1699 and at De Pere in 1701. Though New France was abandoned by her mother country after Sept. 8, 1760, when Montreal succumbed to the British, La Baye continued to be in spirit and population French and Indian and Catholic.

Felt Effects of War
Over Green Bay passed the wars induced by the French and English and American nations. It saw its French fort repaired and named Edward by the incoming British in 1761 and found itself claimed by the United States as part of the Northwest Territory in 1794, and within twenty years its fort called Fort Smith. Nearly in 1830, Fort Howard was built by the United States. The town which sprang up around Fort Smith was frankly, if not euphoniously, dubbed Shanty Town and soon gave up its prestige to the nearby settlement called Navarino. In the meanwhile the American Fur Company had platted the Astor settlement, and in 1838 Astor and Navarino became the Borough of Green Bay. In 1883 the village of Green Bay and Fort Howard were incorporated to form the city of Green Bay as it lies today east and west of the Fox river.

Courtesy Handed Down
Across Green Bay's tapestry of civilization move designs wrought by the tempestuous French, the stoic missionaries, the restrained English, a canny Scot or two and doughty folk from Western Europe, and the restless ever-burrowing Americans. Herein is woven the romance of the fur trade overtaken by the beat of Indian drums and the silent tragedy of Indians ever moving westward, and the color in great names from Nicolet to Dousman. It is a masterpiece of pain and power, a masterpiece of despair and laughter, and to swell the heart with pride, long may it hang in the world's great hall of fame.

All down the years has prevailed the kindly courtesy and hospitality, which characterized Green Bay in early times. Long after the English and Americans came and people from other lands, this town kept its French feeling despite the indignities of extinguished land titles and the forced legalizing of long-sanctified marriages. From the happy "habitants" cultivating their cabbage behind their little riverside cabins and from the French-intermarried Indians came a special kind of simple and honest good manners which lends a delightful flavor to the hospitality which Green Bay offers with such polite good taste.

Two Calumet County Farmers Experiment With Wheat Variety

Chilton—Wenzel Wenzel and Henry Treinen, two Calumet county farmers, are growing certified Sturgeon spring wheat for the first time and are finding this variety of wheat to be all they expected of it. For the last eight years this wheat has given the highest average yield per acre at the Sturgeon Bay experimental station. During this time it has averaged 17.7 bushels to the acre.

On milling and baking test this wheat has also given superior results when compared with other varieties of spring wheat raised in this section. E. J. Delwiche, superintendent of the Sturgeon Bay station, speaks highly of Sturgeon spring wheat for farmers interested in growing spring wheat.

T. Henry Weeks, secretary, pointing out that the Calumet county fair is only about one month away, is urging farmers to start selecting grains and grasses to be exhibited at the fair. Exhibits should represent the ability and skill of the exhibitor in growing his crops and preparing them for showing.

The best display is made by taking the plants at the right time, curing, fitting and binding them to represent in such a way that they will give the crop to the best advantage for the particular purpose for which it is grown, he stated. He advised selection at harvesting time of several good bundles of oats.

barley, wheat and rye, or cutting with a sickle a quantity of the best plants with large ripe heads and clean bright straw. These should be cured where they will not be exposed to rain or dew. Exposure to sunlight tends to bleach the straw. All the leaves should be stripped off before the stems become dry and brittle. Neat bundles, three or more inches in diameter, should be bound at the center.

Mr. Weeks advised collecting of grasses, clovers and vetch when in blossom; alfalfa when just beginning to blossom tends to make the best showing; cutting soy beans and field peas for hay sheaves when the plants are well podded; but the seeds immature.

LOST AND FOUND

Idoloh, Tenn.—(7)—Five years ago Mrs. B. C. Brackett of the Coghill community lost a highly-prized pin.

She had won it in a county-wide contest of the Girls' auxiliary of the Baptist church.

She was slicing potatoes from her garden recently. Out fell the pin when she halved one of the "spuds."

SEYMOUR — Walter Zuehls, a pitcher who has performed with Seymour, Hopkinsville, Ky., Bloomington, Ill., and the Madison Blues, will return to Seymour's lineup and hurl against New London this evening at New London. Zuehls, a right hander, tossed a couple games for Seymour last year.

Seymour will go into New London intent on avenging two defeats suffered there. Last week Seymour dropped a 2 to 1 encounter and previous to that suffered a one-sided setback just about the time it was

TRUCKS PLAY THURSDAY
Clintonville — The Clintonville Truckers again are in first place, this time in a tie with Green Bay and Two Rivers each with two wins and one loss. From the looks of the present State league standings ev-everything points to a close second half race. The winner of the second half melee will meet the Trucks in a two out of three series to be played after the closing game of the second half. However, should Clintonville emerge victor in the second half as it did the first half, no extra games will be played.

This week the league standings undoubtedly will be changed with Two Rivers at Green Bay, Seymour at New London and Manitowoc Ships guests of the Trucks Thursday night. The winner of the Two Rivers-Green Bay game still will be in first position and should the Trucks win they also will be on top. Manitowoc is in the cellar but has a powerful hitting squad and always reaches the peak against the first half champs. Every game the two teams have played has been nip and tuck and with both improved over the first half, the game should rate tops.

Clintonville really has been hitting the ball this year and has established a record in the loop. All of the members have hit at least one home run except the pitchers. Ty Steff, second baseman, is leading the league in doubles and Ray Trimble, first sacker, ranks tops with triples.

Atley Donald in Twelfth Victory; Tips Browns, 5-1

Chicago White Sox Drop Twin Bill to Boston's Red Sox

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The Yankees' record breaking freshman star, Atley Donald, rang up his twelfth consecutive victory against no defeats yesterday as the runaway champions squelched the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 1, in their series opener at Yankee stadium.

Never in danger of having his streak broken, the young right-hander gave the Browns only five hits, the first of which was a single by Billy Sullivan in the sixth inning. He struck out two and issued four walks in maintaining his amazing string.

In addition to giving Donald sparkling support, the Yankees made the most of their seven hits off Bob Harris and Howard Mills, chasing Harris from the hill in the sixth.

Joe DiMaggio led the winners' assault with a home run and a single. His homer, his ninth of the season, was a mighty blast, falling deep into the left field bleachers at least 40 feet from the plate.

Powers Break Down and Consent To Return Game With P-C Squad

ISN'T it just too ducky?? The Power Company softball team has broken down and consented to a return game with the Post-Crescent. Big of them, what? The battle is being arranged for next week under the lights at Spencer street field.

The Powers, after having played several practice games, downed the newspaper boys, who hadn't played for many years, in the first game and now claim they have the bull by the horns. (We're not so sure about the horns part of that.) Since that memorable tilt, the Post-Crescent has trimmed the City Officials and is looking for a chance to redeem itself. Mt. Olive hung up a 12 to 5.

Church league victory at the expense of Salvation Army at Roosevelt school diamond last evening.

The Army broke the ice with a run in the first inning but Mt. Olive got going in the second and shoved across three markers to knock Plach out of the box.

The Army team came through with three runs in the third frame to take a temporary lead and Mt. Olive picked off a run in their half of the stanza for a 4-4 tie score. Mt. Olive forged ahead with two tallies in the fourth inning and snubbed a Salvation Army rally at one run in the fifth frame.

H. Helms tossed for the winners and allowed seven hits while fanning eleven and issuing four walks. Plach and Tilly were touched for a total of 15 hits.

E. McCarty hammered a circuit blow while J. Dietrich and O. Kloes were credited with doubles.

Brewers Bunch Hits to Defeat Louisville, 8-6

Earn Even Break in Four-Game Series With Colonels

MILWAUKEE.—(AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers bunched all their hits and runs in two big innings here last night to defeat the Louisville Colonels 8 to 6 and earn an even break in the four-game series.

Milwaukee blasted Ted Olson off the mound with four runs in the second inning. Oris Hockett opened with a triple, and his teammates collaborated with four singles, a stolen base and a walk.

The Colonels scored three times in the third when they reached Kenny Jungles for four of their nine hits, but Milwaukee came back in its half of the inning for four more runs, Hockett touching off the fireworks with a home run.

From that point on Bud Parmelee held the Brewers hitless.

St. Paul's Saints are showing the form that kept them in third place much of the early season in the American association.

After a nose-dive that plunked them into sixth place the Saints are going strong again. They strengthened their fourth place position last night with a 3 to 2 victory over Toledo, defeating Floyd Giebell in his first mound start since coming to the Hens in exchange for Fred Hutchinson. The victory and Indianapolis' double loss at the hands of Kansas City put the Saints within two and a half games of third place.

Tom Rees scattered eight hits to the Indians in winning the first game, 9 to 1, taking it easy behind a 15-hit attack. In the nightcap which was shortened to six innings to allow Indianapolis to catch a train, Mitchell Balas set the blues down with four hits but Kansas City squeezed out two runs to give Ernie Bonham a shutout win, 2 to 0.

The Blues' two wins put them a game and a half ahead of second-place Minneapolis which defeated Columbus, 7 to 3, for the Millers' seventh straight triumph.

Suggests Dowry for Girls To Avert Domestic Trouble

BY DOROTHY DIX

The national consultant of the Parents and Teachers association advocates the revival of the old-fashioned dowry for girls as a solution for our domestic troubles and as the only way to stop the increase in divorce.

DOROTHY DIX

Wise woman! A Daniel in petticoats come to judgment! Let us hope and pray that she is starting a Dollars for Daughters campaign that will sweep the country and give every bride a financial plank to stand on that is strong enough to bear the weight when she gets married. And surely such a movement would have the ardent support of all women, for there is not a wife with money of her own who does not know how much it does to sweeten marriage. Nor is there a wife who does not know what a sour taste the lack of money of her own leaves in her mouth.

Certainly it would do a lot to stabilize the home for every girl to come to her husband with a dowry. For one thing, she would be putting money in the business. That would give her a standing as a real partner in it and make her husband feel that she had some right to its profits and perquisites, and that he wasn't being noble and generous every time he gave her a new pair of stockings. And it would make the wife feel a lot more responsible for the prosperity of the home if her money was tied up in it.

Furthermore, for the wife to possess some money of her own changes the attitude of the husband and wife to each other. It isn't human for any of us not to be a little condescending and arrogant toward those who are dependent on us. This spirit creeps even into marriage and makes the most liberal and devoted husband treat a penniless wife with a trifle less consideration than he would show one who had her own money.

Also, if the husband is lacking in finer qualities of manhood, a wife's only protection is her pocketbook. I once heard some one ask a well-off old man why he still continued working so hard after he had already accumulated a comfortable fortune, to which he replied: "I'm trying to leave my daughters enough to secure their husbands treating them well after I am dead."

As for women, the possession of even a small income of their own does more than anything else to make marriage happy. It takes away from them the sense of inferiority that comes from being financially dependent. It saves them from the insults that are only too often showered on them when the bills come in, when they are berated as fools, or worse, for having bought a $5 hat instead of a $2.50 one, and it gives them the blessed privilege of being able to spend a few dollars without having to give an account for it.

All the older peoples, and among whom, it may be noted, divorce is a rarity, have long seen the wisdom and justice of giving a girl a dowry when she marries. But we have scorned it, our men boasting that they were not fortune hunters and our parents crying out that they didn't have to give prizes with their daughters to get them married. In reality, in no other country in the world is the dowry system so needed as it is with us.

Because we raise our girls with extravagant tastes and habits that very few young men are able to meet when they marry. We do not lay up anything for our daughters' futures. We put it all on their backs as they go along, and so when Mary and Sally marry they have a lot of fattened fannies instead of a little nest egg in the bank.

There are thousands of girls who, from their infancy up, have been indulged in every luxury. They have had expensive clothes. They have gone to schools that cost small fortunes. They have had trips abroad. They have their own cars. And when they get married they had show weddings. But all of these extravaganzas had cost their fathers every cent they could rake and scrape, and they had absolutely nothing, not a dollar, to

Bid of Suit Is No Sign To Lay Off

BY ELY CULBERTSON

At the risk of stating the obvious, I must point out that the average defense goes wrong simply because the defenders do not know where to look for the setting trick. It is the commonest of all sights to see them plugging away at an impregnable suit, making no attack whatever on a truly vulnerable suit. Note today's hand:

NORTH		EAST
♠ 7 2	♥ 10 9 8	♠ 10 9 8	♥ 7 2
♦ 10 9 8	♣ 10 9 8	♦ 10 9 8	♣ 10 9 8
♠ 10 9 8	♥ 10 9 8	♠ 10 9 8	♥ 10 9 8
♦ 10 9 8	♣ 10 9 8	♦ 10 9 8	♣ 10 9 8

The bidding:
South West North East
3 hearts Pass Pass Pass
4 spades Pass Pass Pass

West opened the club queen. Logically feeling that the best chance to defeat the contract might be a club ruff. Dummy won, and East's deuce of clubs was highly significant (had West bid realized it). The spade jack was led (not the best play; a low spade to the ten or eight would have been better), and East correctly covered. Declarer won with the ace and sent his singleton diamond toward the king. West hopped up with the ace and made the "normal" continuation of a diamond. Dummy's king won, South discarding a heart, and now another spade was led toward the closed hand. West captured the eight with the nine and, having nothing better to do, cashed the spade king. Declarer now could spread the hand, since he could throw his remaining heart on dummy's long club.

The defense had been ruined at the point where West, after winning the diamond ace, continued with the diamond queen. I said that this was the "normal" continuation, by which I meant that most players would not give a thought to any other plan. Actually, however, if West had analyzed the situation, he inevitably would have been led to the winning defense. East had played the club deuce to the very first lead, thereby absolutely denying the possession of the club jack. Thus South was marked with that card and dummy's club suit was absolutely solid. Declarer could have no more than two diamonds, hence there was no possibility of a defensive diamond trick, aside from the ace. This left only the heart suit as the source of a possible setting trick. On winning with the diamond ace, West should have shifted to a low heart, absolutely disregarding the fact that South had bid hearts. Note the difference this would have made. East's heart jack would force one of the declarer's honors. Now, if declarer led a spade West would win and return another heart, forcing declarer's remaining honor and rendering him helpless. If he led another spade, driving out West's king, West could cash the high heart; if declarer ignored West's high spade and led clubs to dummy, West could ruff and cash the heart long before declarer could get his discard on dummy's last club.

The fact that a declarer has bid a certain suit is not so much a sufficient reason for the defenders to "lay off" that suit in the play.

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

It is always well to identify newly planted seeds by placing a marker of some kind or other in their row. Such an identification prevents the mixing of colors, or in the case of varieties which look alike, prevents mixing different plant families. Much time is saved when establishing a permanent garden by planting properly identified material.

For identification purposes there is available a wooden plant label. Four and six-inch sizes are economically purchased. Men handy with tools often prefer to make their own. They can be made by cutting suitable pieces of wood to the proper size and then thoroughly soaking the pieces in a strong solution of sulphate of iron. When dry, the pieces are again soaked, this time in lime water. When dry, again, the labels are painted with flat white paint to make writing on them easy.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

How comforting it is to feel that no matter what fun the day or evening brings you are prepared for it! Let's pretend you start out to play tennis and the crowd decides to go for a swim instead. Isn't it nice to know that the night previous you made yourself dainty as possible by removing excess hair under your arms and from your legs and finished your grooming by giving your toes a good pedicure?

Or let's imagine that you do play for a rapid shower and change of clothing to join the gang for lunch at some smart place. What a relief it is to have handy that anti-perspirant or deodorant you bought last week, so you may slip into that sheerest of blouses or most precious of dresses, without the least fear!

There is no denying that "a stitch in time saves nine," and the girl who is constantly meticulous in her grooming is not going to miss a bit of the summer's fun. Neither is she going to be lacking in popularity. For her insured daintiness gives her a poise which men so admire and other girls greatly envy.

Men Like Us Sweet
And if you doubt for a moment that these little grooming details are not important, just think you could read some of the letters which men and boys write to me! I'm inclined to believe that men are literally cleaner individuals (those who are worth knowing and shedding affection on) find a fresh undershirt and shirt necessary every single day. They like to have coolies of socks on hand for frequent changes and there isn't a doubt in my mind that a man steps under a shower or in to a bath, or takes a swim, more readily than the average woman! Of course, I know we have to get after them for fingernails and other details, but let's give them credit for what they do do, and let's try to please our favorite ones by keeping sweet. Many a

TABLE SERVICE
Dear Mrs. Post: (1) When a small dinner party is given at home, should the host or the hostess enter the dining-room first? (2) Which one should leave the dining-room first? (3) In a dining-room where one end of the table is toward the butler's pantry and the other end toward the hall from which the guests enter, at which end of the table should the hostess be seated? templates telling the secret which has been hidden for 14 years.

Mamie's confusion is, however, though, for she realizes that nothing good can come of such a nasty revelation at this belated time, but she jealously wants to belittle her husband.

Vaguely she reasons that if she can reduce him to a suppliant role where he is in the same boat with herself she may be able to batter down his vanity to such an extent that she can dominate him.

If her own children will turn away from him, then she may stand a better chance to win back his adoration and companionship.

I have been brutally frank in this revelation of Mamie, for these panicky menopausal wives, and husbands, too, lose perspective and often revert to a jealousy typical of spoiled children.

How to Treat Mamie
It would be wasted effort, therefore, to spend hours and hours arguing with Mamie that it is foolish to reveal her husband's single act of embezzlement many years ago.

His crime isn't the basic problem. We should wave it aside quickly and probe to the core of her dilemma. Mamie isn't worried about her husband. This is simply a camouflage. It is an excuse instead of a reason. She is panicky about her own lack of feminine charm.

And her panic is based on a foolish misconception of even modern women who think that the functioning uterus is essential to sexual compatibility, and marital delight.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

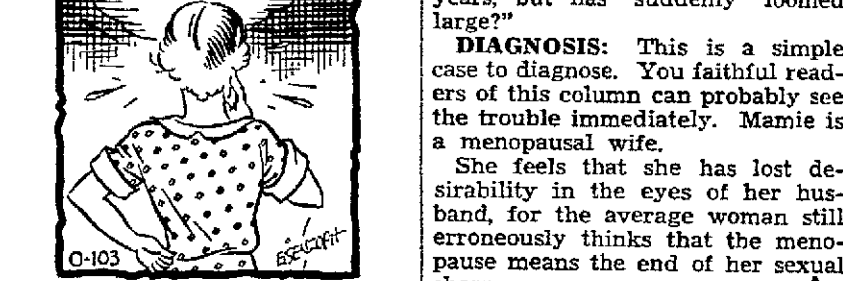

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

Mamie's case is a classical example of the flimsy excuses which people employ to cover up deeper personal and sexual problems. Be sure to paste this case in your scrapbook, for it is a beautiful example of the menopausal complex.

CASE 0-103: Mamie F., aged 44, has two children in college.

"About 15 years ago Mamie's husband appropriated some money be-city, and have built a home. They have a good business of their own. "A year ago, however, Mamie took some radium treatments and is now in the menopause. But she is so muchacho and brooding that her family worry about her."

"She says she feels she should tell her children about their father's crime 15 years ago. The children are pals of their father, and she is distraught because she thinks it is her Christian duty to inform them."

"I have told her to let sleeping dogs lie. Dr. Crane, why is she so upset over this incident which has apparently not disturbed her for 14 years, but has suddenly loomed large?"

DIAGNOSIS: This is a simple case to diagnose. You faithful readers of this column can probably see the trouble immediately. Mamie is a menopausal wife.

She feels that she has lost desirability in the eyes of her husband, for the average woman still erroneously thinks that the menopause means the end of her sexual charm.

Mamie feels as if she is on the shelf, or at best is to be tolerated only as chief cook and housekeeper instead of sweetheart. The fact that her husband seems to have turned to the children, also vaguely reinforces her belief in her lack of feminine charm, and also promotes vague jealousy.

Dog In the Manger Wives
Mamie epitomizes the old adage that misers love company. If she is to be ostracized because of her menopause, then she also wants her husband to suffer, too, so she con-

longing to his employer," a friend of the family informed me. "The money was refunded. There was no unfavorable publicity. Since then her husband has led a distant life. They have moved to a distant

Mothers Should Ignore Tears To Avoid Trouble in Future

BY ANGELO PATRI

Tears can be a tyrannical force and children soon learn how to wield it. Mothers should be on guard against the tears that come at call in time of need. Ignore them. Send the child to the bathroom to wash his face. Teach him that he can cry all he likes, by himself, but he cannot cry in the presence of other people. Begin early and stick to it, and one nuisance less will trouble you.

Betty, aged seven, has been much with her mother so that now she has decided that mother must not go out of her sight. The moment she hears her mother mention going out, Betty has a stomachache, her heart hurts her, and she begins to cry. Put a child like that to bed and go your way. The person in charge will see that no harm comes to her. She will soon stop crying when she finds it brings her nothing.

A small boy begins whimpering the instant he discovers he is to be asked to do something like standing still to have his face washed, or come in for lunch, or get dressed, or go to bed. It is fatal to let him get away without doing what he was expected to do. Each victory helps him win the next. Go right ahead, wade-through his tears and then leave him to finish crying by himself.

It is a good idea not to give a child anything he cried for. Even if it would be quite all right for him to have it, the fact that he cried for it is the best reason for withholding it. Some children consider whining and crying an effective way of getting things they want. If it had not worked they would not keep on using it. Show them that it does not work, even at inconvenience to yourself, and they stop.

One small boy made his mother's life miserable by crying, yelling in the shops for what he thought he would like until, in desperation, she turned him over and spanked him one day right there and then, and took him home and put him to bed to sleep it off. He was easily depended upon his mother's dislike for a scene in a public place and when that was taken from him, he gave up. Don't wait for a public scene. Begin at home when he begins to wail for what he wants and there will be less bother.

Mothers soon learn to know the meaning of a cry. It can mean hunger, fatigue, temper, pain, self-will.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Runt

YESTERDAY: Several arms of the law had Bill Steele off to jail for creating a disturbance in Dredfather's domain. We flash back to Tacks Adams who is conversing with his Aunt Vee.

Chapter 18
House of Hell
"Debt?" queried Tacks, stalling.
"Love?"

"Debt," confirmed Mrs. Sackville. "Love, two four-let me see, meaning a state of imbecility. Now then, Jonathan, since you seem to be a backward boy, I'll diagnose your case myself. You have far more money than any young scoundrel ought to have. The chances are you're not in debt. Consequently, you must be smitten with some chit of a girl."

Tacks would have liked to advise Mrs. Sackville that he was not even on his blood relations, could refer to Packy North as a "chit" and get away with it. But, in his wisdom, he perceived that such advice would admit the existence of Packy. And he distinctly did not want Aunt Vera to know anything about that glamorous young person. Aunt Vera was a self-constituted champion of the Adams name and the Adams rights. Heaven alone knew to what lengths she might go were she to learn that a lady in a night club had taken the heart of her favorite nephew and kicked it all over the Butterfield 8 district.

"Nonsense," he said now, achieving a derisive note. "Why, gee, who would I be in love with? I don't know many girls. And, anyhow—well, all the girls are away for the summer. It was a weak finish, he realized.

Aunt Vera attended to a practicality before going to work further on Tacks.
"Do you want dessert?" she inquired.

"Gosh, no. I'll have a cup of coffee, though, Black."

Mrs. Sackville touched a small silver bell. Instantly a maid came, who looked as if she should have been the Archbishop of Canterbury, entered the room. He was not the Archbishop of Canterbury, however. Dredfather, Mrs. Sackville's butler, would have been affronted to be likened to the Archbishop of Canterbury. Privately, Dredfather considered, that when really in form, he could make such as the Archbishop of Canterbury appear frivolous.

"You are a dandy," said Dredfather, almost reproachfully. His voice had a deep sonorous quality, like the base notes of an organ.

"Certainly, I rang," snapped Mrs. Sackville, who had never allowed herself to be impressed by Dredfather. "No dessert. Coffee for Mr. Adams. And, Dredfather! Where is Lily now?"

"Tacks started."
"Do you mean to say," he demanded, "that that terrible dog is here?"

Dredfather replied civilly. But in some miraculous fashion he contrived to get it across that he was treating a loathsome subject. "The animal is in the kitchen, Madam. The cook has issued an edict."

"Oh, she has, has she?" barked Mrs. Sackville. "I suppose the cook doesn't like Lily?"

Dredfather nodded portentously. "In my judgment that is the case, Madam."

"What did the cook say?"
"The cook desired me to inform you, Madam," said Dredfather, looking down his nose, "that unless the animal is removed in the near future, she will give notice."

end she will have her back to the pantry door.) (4) When the host carves a roast it is better form for him to remain seated or to stand?

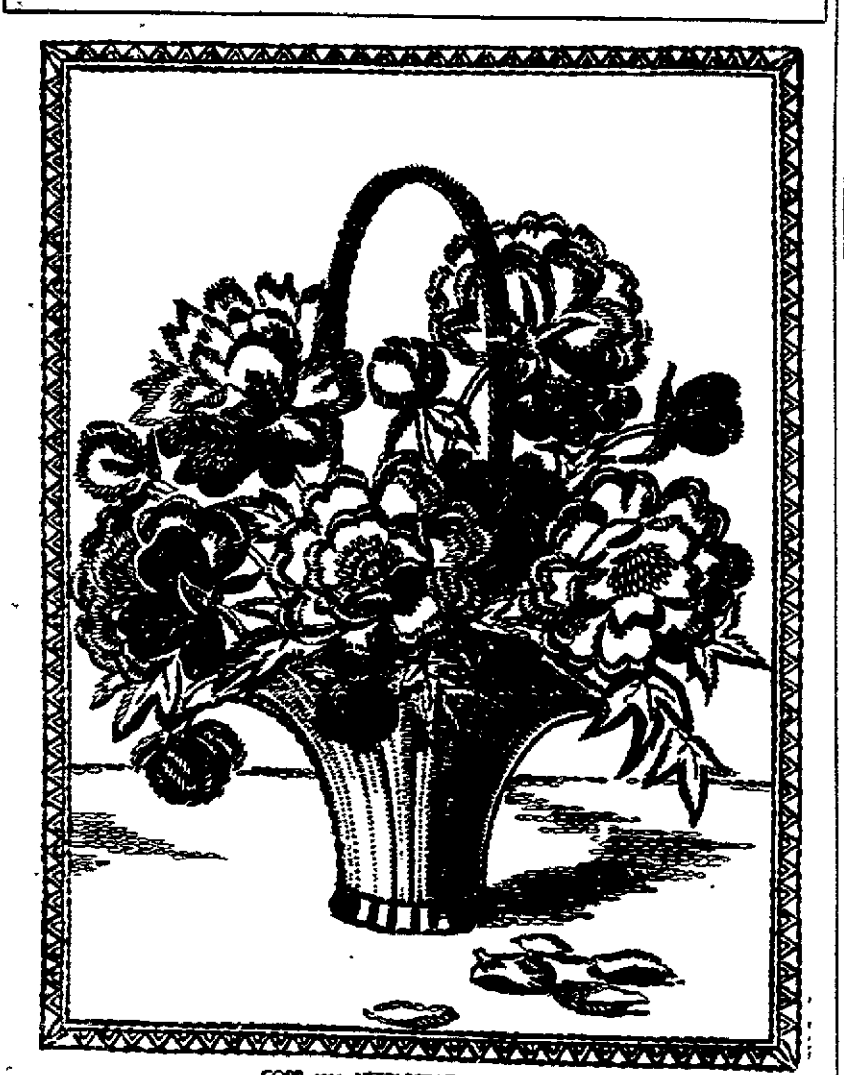

Answer: (1) Although at a formal dinner the hostess should lead the way, with the lady of honor on his arm, at a small dinner the ladies go in first and the gentlemen follow. The hostess never goes first, except when it is necessary to lead the way. She may however—and properly—go up to the lady of honor, (in this case meaning a stranger or the oldest person present) and say, "Will you come in to dinner and walk with her as far as the entrance to the dining-room from which she directs her where to sit. She then stands aside to let one or two others go ahead of her before hurrying to her own place where she stands until she has told the other guests where they are to sit. At a dinner or lunch where there are place cards, the hostess enters the room last of the ladies always, since she does not have to direct any one. (2) After dinner the ladies all leave the dining-room first, and then the gentlemen either follow or sit down again, after the ladies have left the dining-room, to have their coffee and liqueurs. (3) She generally sits facing the pantry door, for the reason you give. However, there is no rule. Most men stand because few are tall enough to carve skillfully otherwise. If a host is both very tall and skillful he remains seated.

Is It Lunch, Dinner or Supper?
Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain the real difference between the setting of a dinner table, lunch table, and one set for supper.

Answer: The setting of a lunch table differs from a dinner table in that the runners or a bare table take the place of a tablecloth. Napkins are smaller, bread and butter plates are correct, and bouillon cups or bowls are used in place of soup plates. (Tablespoons should be used for rimless plates, as well as for the formal dinner soup plates with rims.) Candles are omitted unless the dining table be dark without them. A supper table is the same as a lunch table with the addition of candles as for dinner and its own characteristic tea-tray holding tea perhaps, but usually chocolate or coffee equipment is placed in front of the hostess who always pours whatever the hot beverages may be. (Even though called "dinner," the table appointments of the evening meal in the majority of present-day houses are, if you choose to be overprecise as to correctness, actually those for supper.)

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

WINTER AND SUMMER

The planet Mars is "tilted on its axis," and the tilt is nearly the same as the earth's. From this fact, we might expect Mars to have seasons, and it does!

Let us speak first of the winter season on the northern half of Mars. It lasts much longer than winter in North America. This is to be expected because the year on Mars is equal to one year and 10 and a half months on the earth.

Drawing of Mars made at Lick Observatory.

At the start of the winter on Mars, there is a "polar cap" around the North Pole, about 500 miles across. There is little doubt that the cap is made up of snow and ice. As time goes on, the white cap grows and grows. In mid-winter it often stretches from the North Pole 1,500 miles, or more, southward toward the equator. The winter coat of Mars is equal, in proportion, to a coat of snow stretching from our North Pole, Chicago and Salt Lake City.

When the winter ends, the white coat over the northern part of Mars melts away until, at last, it is nothing but a polar cap with a width of about 200 miles.

While the northern part of Mars is losing its white covering, the southern part has a white patch which grows and grows. This sort of thing also happens on our earth--North America has summer while Australia has winter.

For more than half a century, astronomers have been studying the so-called "seasons" of Mars. Almost all agree that there are lines which come into view, then go out of sight. As to what the lines mean, we are not yet sure.

Many scientists think the lines are made by plant life which springs up on either side of waterways. Perhaps the waterways are rivers, but they may be canals.

Certain dark patches on Mars are of greenish color for a part of the summer season. Later they take on a gray or brownish color. This is very much like what happens to plant life on earth.

We know that Mars does not have a very moist climate. Cloud-like masses are seen in its air now and then, but not very many. If there is enough of a water supply for plant life, the water must come mainly from the melting of the polar caps.

Dry Weather Is Damaging Crops, Heffernan Says

Agent Reports Lack of Rainfall in County May be Serious

Neenah — Crops in Winnebago county, especially corn, are suffering from lack of rain, R. C. Heffernan, Winnebago county agricultural agent, reported today. The damage, which has been extensive, will be serious unless there is a general rainfall soon, he added.

The agent related that he inspected a field of corn on a farm south of Neenah and noted that although the corn is growing on a high fertility soil, the bottom leaves are beginning to curl and dry. "Unless there is rain soon, the corn crop will be damaged seriously. The stalks will be short and the ears will not fill out," he said.

The situation is more serious in the south and western parts of the county although drought conditions are general. Potatoes, too, are showing the effects of the prolonged dry spell, the agent declared, and truck gardeners, not equipped with facilities for watering their crops, are being hard hit, cucumbers especially being affected. The second crop of hay will be extremely light and pastures are badly dried already.

Dry weather has been beneficial for the seed crops, and both alfalfa and clover seeds are aided by the dry conditions.

The agent said that the grain crops are harvesting better than expected, although there is some barley blight in the county, due principally to dry weather.

Recreational Group To Present Play at Grange Hall Tonight

Everything is in readiness for the dance and program which Outagamie county recreational group will sponsor at 8:30 this evening at South Greenville Grange hall. The program will open with the presentation of the play, "Not Quite Such a Goose," by members of the Columbus 4-H club. The cast will include Miss Mae Bell Plamann, Eugene Paltzer, Miss Louise Rohloff, Harold Welland and Miss Jane Heferbecker.

The dance committee includes Gilbert Wendt, chairman; Miss Nina Uhlenbrauck, Orville Lambie, Miss Lucy Haef, Elvy Lillge and Norman Sieber. The clean-up committee consists of Donald Tiedt, Orville Lambie, Sam Wirth, Miss Marion Defferding and Miss Vivian Wirth.

Miss Dorothea Steeking, 4-H club leader who is working in Outagamie county this summer, will meet Friday afternoon with the girls of Happy Hearts 4-H club to help them plan their exhibits and booth for the Seymour fair. The fair will be held Aug. 17, 18, 19 and 20.

State Exports of Cattle Increase

40,315 Shipped Out of Wisconsin During Year Ended July 30

Madison—Wisconsin imported and exported more cattle in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, than in the corresponding period last year, the state department of agriculture reported today.

The number of cattle shipped out of the state was 40,315, or 2,401 greater than for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1938. With 17,736 cattle shipped into the state, imports were increased by 1,864.

The import figure for the fiscal year just ended does not include 10,091 steers shipped into Wisconsin on permit and 825 released through the Milwaukee stockyards, it was pointed out by Dr. V. S. Larson, chief of the department's livestock sanitation division.

Other figures show that the number of horses shipped into the state decreased by 2,609 while the number exported decreased by 80. The total number of horses imported in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, was 18,498, while the export figure was 228.

Sheep imports showed a decrease of 11,282. During the fiscal year just closed 65,506 sheep were shipped into Wisconsin. Only 400 sheep—a decrease of 705—were exported from the state.

Grain Holdings on State Farms High

Corn Storage This Summer Is Double Figure of Last Year

Madison—Stocks of old grain held by Wisconsin farmers are considerably larger than the average of recent years, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture.

Mid-year estimates showed that at the beginning of the harvesting season, more than 10 million bushels of corn were being held on Wisconsin farms. On July 1, 1938, farm stocks of corn were estimated at nearly 5 million bushels. The average holdings on Wisconsin farms for the 10 years, 1928-37, were estimated at about 3 million bushels.

Stocks of corn on farms in the state on July 1 represent about a fourth of the corn harvested for grain last year.

Stocks of oats on July 1 were estimated at nearly 13 million bushels, which is about 5 million bushels more than the stocks on farms July 1, 1938. Oat stocks on Wisconsin farms this year are about 2 million bushels above the 10-year average.

About one-fourth of the state's wheat crop harvested last year was being held by farmers on July 1. Estimates show that 482,000 bushels of wheat were on hand this year compared with 409,000 bushels on July 1 of last year and the 10-year average of 302,000 bushels.

Soil Conservation Payments Expected Earlier This Year

Neenah — Checks to Winnebago county farmers who are participating in the 1939 soil conservation program will be delivered earlier this year, according to Otto H. Miller, president of the Winnebago County Soil Conservation association.

He said that the first batch of computation sheets, covering more than 50 per cent of the farms in the program, have been completed two months ahead of last year.

Last year Winnebago county farmers received $99,860.33 for transferring parts of their farm acreage from soil depleting to soil building crops, and more than 2,000 farmers are participating in the program in this county this year, so the total benefits will be about $110,000.

Poultry Fanciers Will Open World Parley This Week

Cleveland, O., to be Scene Of International Gathering

Poultry fanciers from over the globe will be represented when the World Poultry congress opens Friday at Cleveland, O.

One of the features will be the observance of International Peace day at the congress Sunday. Paul V. McNutt, former national commander of the American Legion and regarded as a likely Democratic nominee for president, will be the speaker.

The congress will last through Aug. 7 and will touch on every phase of the industry in all parts of the world. Both Canada and Pan-American countries will be honored with a special day at the congress. Canada day, July 31, will be marked by the performances of a troop of Royal Northwest mounted police. On Pan-American day, Aug. 1, the flags of 21 Pan-American countries will be raised.

Further emphasizing the international aspect of the congress will be the reading of 256 scientific papers in English, German, French, and Spanish. Interpreters will summarize each.

Foreign countries will sponsor more than 40 displays at the congress. The largest foreign exhibit will come from Canada.

European Corn Borer Here to Stay, Belief Of State Department

Madison — Following an 8-year campaign to turn back a persistent intruder on eastern Wisconsin farms, the state department of agriculture announced today that the European corn borer is probably here to stay.

The number of fields infested with the corn borer has greatly increased in Sheboygan, Ozaukee, Milwaukee, and Fond du Lac counties, according to early reports from department field men assigned to scout the pest in the first two tiers of counties bordering on Lake Michigan.

First introduced in Wisconsin in 1931, the corn borer is now apparently beyond the eradication stage and will have to be fought with control measures from year to year, it was pointed out by E. L. Chambers, chief of the department's plant industry division.

It may be necessary this year, Chambers said, to scout counties farther to the west to find the outermost edge of the corn borer infestation.

The award, a scroll and sealed paper, was signed by James A. Moss, president general of the association, and President Roosevelt. Alderman Keller was chairman of the flag week committee here and was assisted by various Appleton organizations.

on the leash until you get to the reservoir, then let her off. Is that clear? All right, Run along."

She thrust the leash in his hand and pushed him, still protesting, toward the door.

"But," Tacks got in a last minute objection, "this is an outrage. The brute's liable to bite some child or scare a horse or..."

"Nonsense!" Aunt Vera opened the door and hurried him through it. "You'll have the time of your life and so will Lily. I'll see you later."

It is one thing to saunter along Fifth Avenue fancy-free and alone. But it is quite another to meander on this same thoroughfare with the feeling that your soul has been sandbagged and attended by something that looks like a cross between Grand Central Station and the Hound of the Baskervilles. Tacks had been perfectly right. He was conspicuous. People craned their necks out of cars and busses to look at him. Pedestrians turned around to gaze after him. A rubberneck bus, filled with tourists of the gaping variety, came along and to Tacks's tortured imagination it seemed as if the mahout, speaking loudly through his megaphone, were calling attention to him. He need not have felt so important, however. His part in the show was negligible. The eyes of the citizenry were focused upon what appeared to them and rightly, as the dog to end dogs.

Seeking to avoid the glaring publicity of the Avenue, Tacks cut across it at Seventy-ninth Street and made for that territory which lies to the rear of the Metropolitan Museum. He presently entered a region thickly infested with moth-eaten, nursemaids, go-carts, small dogs and a wide and variegated assortment of children with and without roller-skates. With glassy and unseeing eyes he plodded his hound through this jungle, occasionally yips both of derision and respect from a sizable proportion of the smaller breeds of dog that lurked in its fastnesses. He breathed more easily when he gained the comparative isolation of the walk that leads to the entrance of the reservoir.

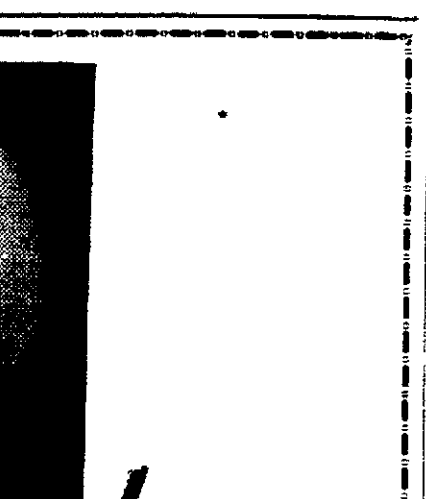

With the howling multitudes behind him, Tacks was again free to bemoan the wretchedness of his condition. As he saw it, his reasons for cheering were about as numerous as antelope in southern New Jersey. Today was Tuesday. On the following Saturday the game of

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get it at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

North, South, East and West was scheduled to end amidst lobster and champagne in the hotsy-totsy part of Long Island. And what sort of a figure, Mr. Adams demanded of Mr. Adams, was he going to cut at that gala affair?
